Party Ends In Tragic Swimming Pool Death

Real Estate Man Falls Unnoticed By Guests

A gay housewarming party in the Golf Tract area of San Rafael ended in tragedy this morning when a San Francisco real estate salesman fell unnoticed into the swimming pool and died, just as the party was breaking up.

The victim was Robert Raymond Madrid, 46, of 241 Leavenworth Street, San Francisco. He was one of about 200 guests who dined and danced at the new home of Marshall Israel at 252 Summit Avenue, San Rafael. Madrid was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital.

Other guests spotted Madrid at the bottom of the pool's deep end about 4 o'clock this morning and pulled him out of the pool. Bruce Osterman of 3725 Webster Street, San Francisco, tried mouth to mouth resuscitation until San Rafael firemen arrived with a resuscitator.

About 30 guests were still at poolside when Madrid was spotted in the pool. Coroner Frank J. Keaton said the cause of death was apparent drowning. The exact cause of death will not be known until toxicology and other tests are completed, the coroner said.

Witnesses told Sheriff's Inspectors Harold Sleezer and Bowen Bridges that the victim fell once near the pool and may have suffered facial cuts before the tragedy. A bloody handkerchief belonging to Madrid was found about 10 feet from the pool's edge.

Guests had been going in and out of the heated pool most of the night, but no one was in the water at the time Madrid's body was found. He was clad in swimming trunks.

Sheriff's inspectors were continuing investigation today. The victim leaves his wife, Carmen, in San Francisco.

Israel, a San Francisco real estate developer, had just purchased the home from J. S. Holloway two weeks ago and had moved in last Monday.

Madrid was described as "the guest of a guest." Most of the people at the party had met him for the first time last night.

NOVATO PROTESTS

Road Assessment District Formed

The Novato City Council formed a Center Road Assessment District last night after a hearing that brought protests from about 20 residents.

The district was formed to finance the widening of Center Road between Diablo and Tamalpais Avenue at a cost estimated at $141,500.

"At these costs the taxpayers are being robbed," Sam Zanco of 1711 Center Road, told the Independent-Journal today. He claimed formation of the district was "done underhandedly" and was "completely unfair" to the property owners involved.

"We need some new city officers, manager, engineers, councilmen and the whole works," he said.

Charles A. Joseph, city director of public works, estimated the cost to the property owners at $18.61 per front foot. The city's share of the project will be $85,835 and the property owners' share, $58,591, he said. "Thirty-six property owners will be affected."

Center Road will be widened from 18 to 40 feet for about 2,000 feet.

Zanco presented a petition of protest to the council last night, but several signers changed their minds before the hearing was over and withdrew their protests.

O. C. Jones and Sons of Berkeley has submitted a low bid of $103,591 for the job, but the council deferred awarding the contract until it gets state approval. Since the bid was about $2,000 more than the engineer's estimate, state approval is necessary, Joseph explained.

The job is expected to start by the end of August and be completed within 60 working days, he said. The city must acquire right of ways, and utilities must be relocated before the widening job can start.

Sino-Soviet Peace Talks 'End' With Differences Unresolved

MOSCOW (UPI) — Eight days of Sino-Soviet "peace-talks" ground to an apparent end today with "very grave" ideological differences still unresolved, informed sources said.

The sources said there was a "probable agreement" to resume talks in the future, possibly in Peking, to avoid the appearance of an open break between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

The two teams met for three hours today and then adjourned for the weekend. The Chinese are expected to leave for Peking early next week.

The strongest hint of the course of the talks came in an editorial in the official Chinese Communist newspaper People's Daily which said if the differences cannot be solved now "they can wait until tomorrow. If they cannot be resolved this year they can wait until next year."

In other words, the two sides appeared to have agreed to disagree while avoiding a public appearance of an open an irrevocable rupture.

Before the Chinese depart the Soviet press is expected to publish the abusive 67-page Chinese letter to the Soviet Central Committee of June 14. In the letter Peking virtually demanded an unconditional Soviet surrender to the Chinese point of view.

The Soviets have refused to publish what they call the slanderous and groundless letter until now on the grounds it would only aggravate the rift during the current talks.

A Peking broadcast of the letter warned that capitalism would "bury" communism if Premier Nikita Khrushchev's "peaceful co-existence" line was followed.

With the talks apparently over, the Soviets may have decided to publish the full text of the letter with an accompanying commentary firmly explaining the Soviet position.

The Soviet reply is expected to reaffirm Moscow's faith in peaceful co-existence, its confidence in the ability to prevent war and in the possibility of disarmament.

Observers said Moscow will continue its foreign policy of rapprochement with the West in spite of Chinese objections and as shown in the Anglo-American-Soviet nuclear test ban talks opening here Monday.

Khrushchev Reaffirms No U.N. Force Funds

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in a letter to British philosopher Earl (Bertrand) Russell, today reaffirmed the Soviet Union's refusal to help finance United Nations operations in the Middle East, The Congo and Yemen.

Khrushchev was replying to a letter from Russell in which the Briton expressed disappointment that the Soviet government "finds it no longer possible to render financial aid to the work of the U.N. organization."

Khrushchev, in the letter broadcast by Moscow radio, said the Soviet Union was "resolutely against" weakening the foundations of the U.N. or bringing about its "disintegration."

But he added, "the so-called financial crisis of the United Nations organization is essentially not a financial but a political question, a direct result of the systematic violation by the Western powers of the U.N. charter."

Khrushchev said that, by using a mechanical vote, the Western powers circumvented the Security Council both in creating the armed force sent to the Middle East and in using U.N. armed forces in The Congo.

"There is no need to recall who bears the responsibility for the emergence of conflicts in these areas, conflicts which created a threat to universal peace and inflicted much grief and suffering on the Egyptian and Congolese peoples," he said.

Harriman Set For Talks On Test Ban

LONDON (UPI) — Presidential Envoy W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham fly to Moscow tomorrow with detailed proposals offering Russia a choice of a partial or a comprehensive nuclear test ban.

The two men today completed final preparations for the crucial Moscow confrontation Monday.

Diplomatic sources said Harriman and Hailsham, who are trying large teams of high level advisers and scientists with them, were empowered to negotiate an immediate ban on all but underground tests.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev in his July 2 speech in East Berlin expressed readiness to sign a partial test ban accord. Diplomats in Londan felt that quick agreement could mark a turning point in relations.

Cautious hopes accompainied last minute preparations here in the light of reports Khrushchev had intimated last Monday to visiting Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak he would not make a partial test ban conditional on non-agression pact between the Nato and Warsaw Defense Alliances.

Powder Puff Derby Off To Flying Start

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — Mrs. Judy Wagner of Palos Verdes led a brigade of distaff pilots armed with weather maps, confidence and lipstick into the air today to begin the 17th running of the transcontinental Powder Puff Derby.

Mrs. Wagner and 43 other female fliers, all but eight accompanied by co-pilots, roared off from the Kern County Airport with their destination, 2,460 miles away in Atlantic City, N. J.

Soviet Agents Are Seeking To Kill Defector

LONDON (AP)—Soviet agents are searching Britain with orders to kill or kidnap master spy Anotoli Dolnytsin, who defected to the West 18 months ago, British newspapers said today.

The Daily Express said an attempt already may have been made on the defector's life.

Dolnytsin brought with him Soviet military information of spy networks and undercover agents working for the Soviet Union. He is understood to have provided British counter-intelligence agents with a list of people in Britain who may be—or could be—Soviet agents.

Dolnytsin is in hiding, under guard, being groomed for a new identity. It is considered vital that he should be unrecognizable to the Soviet agents who for months to come are sure to press an intensive manhunt.

Dolnytsin's defection is believed to have dealt a severe blow to Soviet intelligence services. The Soviets will want him eliminated — for revenge and as a warning to others, informants noted.

Plastic surgery may be used to give Dolnytsin a new face—as it did for many British secret agents during World War II. Then he would be unrecognizable even to those who knew him during the eight months or so he lived in London while on a tour of duty here.

Guards At Cambridge Might Stay 3 Months

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (UPI)—The National Guard commander enforcing limited martial law on this racially torn community predicted today that his 450 troops might have to remain here as long as three months.

Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston, deputy Maryland adjutant general, said he could see "no solution in sight which is going to be mutually agreeable" to prevent new outbreaks of violence and bloodshed in this little Chesapeake Bay fishing town.

Integration leaders suspended new anti-segregation demonstrations after the guard re-imposed "militia law" for the second time in less than a month. But there was a question whether the suspension would last past the weekend.

Philip Savage, an NAACP field director on special assignment to Cambridge, said no firm decision had been made. But he added: "There might be a few small forays here and there" next week.

Integration leaders were scheduled to meet later today to discuss whether to continue to observe the guard-imposed ban on new demonstrations.

Two planned demonstrations yesterday, after announcement of the new, tougher guard regulations, were pinched off at the outset by some gentle persuasion on the part of Gelston.

An uneasy peace prevailed today after the first night of quiet in a week. There was a noticeable lessening of tensions on both sides and, in sharp contrast to the rattle of gunfire Thursday night, a firecracker exploding near the Guard Armory was the biggest noise last night.

Wirtz Talks With Rail Carriers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz met today with the chief negotiator for the railroads in the Kennedy administration's continued efforts to block a nationwide rail strike.

Wirtz and J. E. Wolfe, major spokesman for the carriers, conferred privately in Wirtz's office at the Labor Department.

Neither Wirtz nor Wolfe would say what subject was under discussion, but it presumably concerned the president's promise to seek legislation that would settle the four-year-old dispute over work rule changes advocated by the railroads.

The unannounced meeting was the only sign of activity in the railroad dispute. Some officials predicted it would take legislation by Congress to resolve the crisis that could result in a nationwide strike after July 29.

Tractor Driver Lucky Boss There

It was lucky for William Cooley, 49, of 23 Sentinel Court, San Rafael that his boss, P. H. Vincilione of the P. H. Construction Co. was watching him load his tractor on Goodhill Road in Kentfield yesterday afternoon.

Because at that moment the tractor slipped on its standard and tipped over, trapping Cooley with one of its ripper teeth.

Vincilione immediately went into action using a log, to pry loose the metal tooth. Cooley was taken to Marin General Hospital, treated for multiple contusions and abrasions on back, chest and head areas, and released today.

Sunny Inland; Fog On Coast

San Francisco (AP)—Hot, sunny weather inland and cool fog along the coast prevailed in California today and the forecast was for little change over the weekend.

Temperatures climbed above the mid-July normal in most inland areas, with highs over 100 in much of the Central Valley and desert areas. The hottest was 113 degrees at Imperial.

Along the coast, highs ranged from 59 at Eureka to the mid-seventies on the south coast.

Camp Is Closed By Mountaineers

ROSMAN, N.C. (AP) — Mountaineers enraged by reports of free love, nudity and integration have used flame and gun on Summerlane, and put the summer camp out of business in the Blue Ridge mountains near here.

The 70 campers, mostly teenaged boys and girls, left by car and bus yesterday under police escort after the gymnasium was burned, the window of a camp bus shot out, and gunfire and blows were exchanged Thursday night and early yesterday.

No one was wounded or seriously injured. Sheriff C. R. McCall said he was told the camp was being moved to an unannounced destination in New Jersey.

Some residents of this western North Carolina area, who would not be identified, said they were outraged at what they heard were free love practices and nudity among the campers, and the admission of Negroes.

"All this added together just didn't set too well with the local people. We're mostly Baptist and pretty serious about it," the sheriff said.

However, camp members said only white persons were enrolled. They described Summerlane as nothing more than a summer place where members could relax, enjoy the solitude of the mountains, swim and participate in athletics.

Its literature described Summerlane as based on the principles of Summerhill, a progressive school in England.

Sheriff McCall said the mountain people were aroused by descriptions of camp activity in "The Herald of Freedom," a small newspaper published in New York City and widely distributed among rural folk here.

In New York, the publisher, Frank Capell, 56, who also operates an employment agency, described the publication as a patriotic, bi-weekly, anti-communist newspaper.

Only One Man Convicted Of Contributing

Only one man, not two, was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of two boys by giving them liquor last January.

A news story in yesterday's Independent-Journal was in error in mentioning the conviction of two men. Only Russell Edward Brayall, 40, was found guilty by a jury Thursday.

Donald Byron Keifer, 31, former school teacher, is innocent of any wrongdoing. Keifer had originally been charged along with Brayall, but the charge against Keifer was dropped because there was no evidence to show Keifer had committed any crime.

The Independent-Journal regrets any embarrassment that was caused Keifer because of the error.

Red Speaker Ban Lifted

BERKELEY (AP) — The 12-year ban against Communists speaking at the Berkeley campus of the University of California will be ended July 12 with the appearance of Albert J. Mickey Lima, Northern California chairman of the U. S. Communist Party.

The ban was withdrawn by the university's board of regents June 1.

Chancellor Edward W. Strong announced Lima's speaking engagement yesterday.

Lima will be sponsored by three off-campus student political groups.

University officials said that in compliance with directives prescribed by the regents for Communist speakers the meeting will be chaired by a faculty member and Lima must provide a question period following his talk.

Two Drunken Drivers Fined

Two drunken drivers were fined yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for their first offenses.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson sentenced Ronald Wayne Searls, 30, of 520 Canal Street, San Rafael, and Alfred Giusti, 35, of 1533 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Searls, a salesman, drew $220 fine. He was arrested on Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael on June 15.

Giusti, a bartender, was fined $166 for driving while intoxicated along Francisco Boulevard last May 13.

The judge put both men on six months probation.

Boat Mystery May Be Week Before Solved

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Coast Guard said today it may be a week before a San Francisco Bay boating mystery is solved.

A 26-foot converted Army launch was found chugging in circles just south of the Bay Bridge yesterday. No one was at the helm and a German shepherd dog was swimming alongside.

The vanished pilot may have been Edward Iskara, 35, a South San Francisco fireman, the Coast Guard said. His car was found parked near the South San Francisco Yacht Harbor where the vessel had been moored. His wife reported he was missing, and he owned a dog that matched the description of the animal found in the water.

The owner of the boat, Vincent Coruccini, South San Francisco, said he had given Iskara permission to use the boat at any time.

A Coast Guard spokesman theorized that the dog fell overboard and the operator, after setting the wheel at hard a-port, jumped in and tried to rescue it.

The spokesman said drowned bodies often take a week or more to rise to the surface.

Girl, 14, Killed By Boy Friend

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 14-year-old girl was killed yesterday when her 21-year-old boy friend slashed her throat after she broke off their romance, police said.

Carol Ann Malgren, San Francisco, died at general hospital, and police booked Connie Roy Eames on suspicion of murder.

Carol was baby-sitting two children at the time, officers said.

Investigators said Eames told them he went berserk when the girl told him she wanted to break up.

Bridge Traffic, Tolls Set New High Records

Traffic over the Golden Gate Bridge and tolls collected set new high records for the past fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report to bridge directors yesterday by General Manager James Adam.

The increase in traffic was more than a million vehicles, said Adam.

Total number of vehicles for the year was given at 22,514,356, comparing with 21,377,944 for the previous year which was a gain of 5.32 per cent. In 1937-37, the first full year of bridge operation, only 3,326,521 vehicles went over the bridge.

Toll revenue for the first time passed the five-million-dollar mark with a total of $5,019,850 for the past fiscal year, up 4.54 per cent over the fiscal year 1961-62, Adam reported.

Cash 25-cent tolls for automobiles and small trucks rose 4.49 per cent to a total of 14,200,211 vehicles, while commute autos rose 7.67 per cent to 7,240,346 cars.

Corresponding revenues were $3,550,053 for the 25-cent cash toll vehicles and $954,677 for the commuter cars, traveling at lower rate.

Adam said outside bonded indebtedness is now $18,790,000 principal and $4,053,750 interest, a total of $22,843,750.

The district has paid out $16,210,000 in principal and $34,767,557 in interest, a total of $50,977,557, Adam reported.

He said that there has been "general public acceptance" of the new 50-trip commutation ticket books.

Of Waldo approach widening on the Marin County side, Adam reported that an extra lane will be provided for southbound traffic from the foot of the grade to near the tunnel, with additional widening of the roadway on the east side of Highway 101 north of the bridgehead to the Waldo Tunnel, then to a point near Spencer Avenue for northbound traffic.

No mention was made of possible widening on the San Francisco side as the state has announced no decision, but indicates a low priority.

Mrs. Farnham Will Head Library Board

Mrs. John P. Farnham was elected president of the Mill Valley library board at a meeting Thursday. She has been on the board as trustee two years. Also elected was Paul G. Fourman as secretary.

Mrs. Betty Fudenberg sat for her first time as trustee, succeeding Mrs. Dorothy Peavey, whose term has expired.

The board agreed to invite comments from book borrowers, to be made to the library staff, on its new system of loaning. Basically, books are signed out for two weeks. However, if a book is taken out on a Thursday the borrower may keep it 20 days, since all books are due on Wednesdays. The new system, Mrs. Farnham said, permits books to be circulated as much as 24 times a year rather than the old method of 12 times, or a one-month period.

Armless Couple Married

LIVE OAK, Fla. (UPI) — A young, armless couple was married in a small country church here last night, culminating a two-month romance by mail.

Salesman Martin Ravellette, 23, of Klamath Falls, Ore., and his 19-year-old bride, Jo Beth Johnson of Live Oak, planned a leisurely honeymoon, traveling toward his hometown in Oregon in his specially built car.

They were married in a quiet ceremony in the Pine Level Baptist Church, a small white frame building nestled in this small Florida city.

Two months ago, Jo Beth read of Ravelette's special car in a newspaper. She wrote him and they began corresponding.

He came here three weeks ago to visit the girl. They applied for a marriage license Monday.

Communist Race Charges Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supporters of President John F. Kennedy's civil rights legislation have challenged a southern Governor's claim that current Negro demonstrations are "largely communist inspired."

Sen. A. S. Monroney (D-Okla.) said the Federal Bureau of Investigation would be asked for any information it has relevant to the statement of Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi yesterday in testimony before the Senate Commerce Committee.

Under questioning by Sen. E. L. Bartlett (D-Alaska) Barnett conceded he had not talked with any FBI official to back up his claim that "leaders of the FBI" believe the demonstrations follow a Communist pattern.

Barnett also gave the committee a photograph which he said was taken at "a Communist training school" and showed a group that included Dr. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader.

In New York, King commented that Barnett's claim of a Communist link with Negro demonstrations or with the school where the picture was taken were "utterly ridiculous and fallacious."

The school is the Highland Folk School at Mont Eagle, Tenn.

One man in the picture with King was Abner W. Berry, who Barnett said was a member of the central committee of the Communist Party.

Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) commented:

"I am for civil rights. I would walk with Martin Luther King. I hope that doesn't make me suspect."

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said the picture would be brought to the attention of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Magnuson, chairman of the committee which is considering the president's bill to ban discrimination in public accommodations, emphasized that the main question before Congress was whether the civil rights legislation is warranted.

He said it was beside the point whether racial demonstrations were inspired by "the Communists, the Elks Club, or the John Birch Society."

Gallinas CSD In Final Push For Sewer Plan

Gallinas Village Community Services District directors, who have struggled for nearly a year to annex district sewer facilities to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, have decided to make a final push to collect petition signatures.

The board learned Thursday night that signatures representing only 65 per cent of the district's assessed valuation have been collected to date, according to the most recent analysis of petitions. Representation of 75 per cent of the assessed valuation is required for annexation.

An "interested party," according to the board, has offered $2 per signature to petitioners who obtain signatures for completion of petitions.

"The board itself cannot expend any funds for this of course," said secretary-manager Alys Durenberger. "But if someone else wants to pay for the circulation of petitions, we might finally make it." Persons who circulate petitions must be residents of the area.

Asst. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said there is no law which prohibits payment for names on such petitions, although there are restrictions on petitions circulated under the election code.

Directors hope financial problems of the district will be solved if annexation is successful. They expect the present tax rate to remain at $1 and sewer service charges will remain at $2 a month, despite increased assessed valuation in the area. Rates and fees should drop after sanitary facilities, under fire from the state water pollution control board, are taken over by the sanitary district.

Meanwhile, the community services district must include about $22,000 in its proposed budget for its share of pumping station facilities to be constructed at Hawthorne and Vendola drives by the Santa Venetia Flood Control District.

Job Placements Hit Record For County

Job placements rose to a record 1,061, and unemployment dropped last month at the Department of Employment office in San Rafael, according to Edwin W. Ayer, office manager.

A majority of the June jobs went to students, 409 to high school students and 222 to college students, he said. Many were of short duration, some for the summer and some permanent.

There are still many students seeking jobs, Ayer said. He urged anyone with a job opening for students to notify his office.

During the month, unemployment insurance benefit claims totaled 733 per week as compared to 975 a week in May and 970 a week in June 1962, Ayer reported.

The Youth Summer Work program organized by the Mill Valley Mayor's Youth Committee, supervised by the Park and Recreation Department and financed by appropriation from the city, is underway, Ayer announced.

Six youths, 14-17 years of age, began work Monday cleaning and rebuilding trails in the Mill Valley city parks. They will work four hours a day for a two-week period, and then other groups of six or seven boys will work for two-week periods.

The participating students are residents of Mill Valley who were selected by State Department of Employment interviewers in the San Rafael office.

"Hope is high that the success of this program will encourage other communities in the county to begin similar projects next summer," Ayer said.

Brown Signs Real Estate Fraud Bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — If you can prove fraud by a real estate agent, a new law assures that you can collect court-imposed damages up to $10,000.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown signed the bill into law yesterday. It is effective Sept. 20.

It says that if a person obtains a court judgment against a real estate licensee who is unable to pay, he may recover up to $10,000 from a special fund created by one quarter of all fees collected from the 136,000 licensees in the state.

The measure was by Sen. Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno) and was backed by the California Real Estate Assn. and the State Division of Real Estate.

Brown also signed a bill authorizing Los Angeles County employees to join the federal social security pension system.

Under the measure by Assemblyman Tom Bane (D-North Hollywood) present employees could choose whether to integrate their pension program with social security. All new employees would have no choice.

Motel Asked For Tiburon

A proposed 79-unit, three-story motel, another Frederick G. Zelinsky project in Tiburon, will be considered Monday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The motel, including a restaurant and bar, would be built on Tiburon Boulevard just west of the Tiburon firehouse and near Zelinsky's proposed shopping center. The project was originally planned as a six-story, 106-unit building but was revised after consultation with the planning staff.

Request for a use permit, to establish the motel in a district already zoned for highway business, will be heard as agenda item No. 9. The commission will meet at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center.

Subdivision of 54 acres at Muir Beach, the proposed Seacape subdivision, will be considered as agenda item No. 4. The tentative map for the development by the Miwok Corp. has been continued for several weeks, pending arrangements for sewage and water facilities.

Pollinating insects are essential for seed development in carrots, radishes, turnips, cabbage, celery and many other vegetables.

John Muir Monument Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Park Service has recommended the preservation of the John Muir home at Martinez as a national monument.

(Muir, noted travel writer and naturalist, was largely responsible for establishing Yosemite National Park.)

Rep. John F. Baldwin (R-Calif.) author of a bill to establish the monument, said Thursday the park service recommendation is awaiting the approval of Secretary of Interior Stewart L Udall.

The service study concluded that the home of the conservationist and the related Martinez adobe should be included in the national park system and that its acquisition at an early date is urgent because surrounding land is being rapidly urbanized.

(Muir Woods National Monument in Marin County, named in Muir's honor, was established in 1908. Muir died in 1914.)

Four appeals were heard and continued yesterday for additional study by the board. The supervisors will sit as a board of equalization again Wednesday at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center. Hearings are expected to close Thursday, with the deadline for filing protests being Monday at 5 p.m.

Very Fine China Silk Gives Knits An Attractive Lining

By EUNICE FARMER

"Please tell me how to remove the underarm dart from a pattern? I am very small and thin and can't find a pattern without this dart." Mrs. R.A.J.

Rather than eliminate the dart altogether, I would suggest you make it just half the size the pattern calls for. You may also change the size of the dart under the bust to half its size. This will eliminate quite a lot of the shaping in the bodice and should fit you much better.

Incidentally this is also the correct alteration for pre-teens who haven't developed enough for the amount of shaping the pattern often calls for.

"Please help me decide what to do with cotton and wool knits? Many of the ready-made garments aren't lined; I do prefer a lining unless there is some reason for not using one. Please help me with this."

Mrs. J.W.

The reason most knits aren't lined is because a softer effect is desired in the garment. There is no reason they can't be lined however, I usually prefer a very fine China silk for a lining because it will retain the shape of your garment without any extra bulk. Of course, the biggest advantage of lining is that the hem marks won't show.

While we're on the subject of knits, be sure to use a slightly larger machine stitch and hold the fabric firmly (pulling slightly) as you stitch. This will give the seam the same elasticity as the fabric and prevent a pulled look at the seams as well as breaking the stitches.

Mrs. E.C. says: "One of my favorite gadgets in my sewing equipment area is just a steel wool pad. It's wonderful for that slightly rusty needle, or sticky pin."

"With matching sweaters and skirts so much in vogue, it is often impossible to find a perfect match. I buy a piece of white, fine quality wool and have it dyed the exact color of my sweater. Be sure to have the fabric dyed before you make the skirt and allow a little extra fabric for shrinkage. This should be done professionally to assure successful color matching."

Jean Tashma, St. Louis, Mo., is this week's winner of a tailor trix pressing board for this suggestion.

"The nylon overskirt on my formal has a small burn in the center front. It is very noticeable and I am wondering if there is anything I can do about it? Peggy

This is rather hard for me to answer since you haven't described the fabric and color, however, if it is a solid color, you might scatter a few embroidered medallions over your skirt. Other variations would be tiny velvet bows, beaded or sequined circles, or almost any type of trim. Actually, you can actually make your formal more attractive than it was originally.

Farewell Luncheon Honors Terra Linda Resident

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

A farewell luncheon was given for popular Mrs. William W. Munson by two Terra Linda neighbors, Mrs. Homer Marston Jr. and Mrs. B. F. Qvale Wednesday at the Marston home. The Munsons with their three daughters, Adrienne, Sally and Lisa, leave next week for Dallas, Tex., where they will make their home. The Munsons have been active in developing Terra Linda Communuity Center and have taken part in other projects for improvements in the area.

Among the guests was Mrs. Joseph Gunn III who with her daughters, Dana and Anita, had arrived the day before the luncheon from Afghanistan by way of Europe. Mrs. Gunn, her husband, who is with Asia Foundation, and their children have been living in Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, for two years. The Gunns are former Terra Lindans. Mrs. Gunn and the girls are staying with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gunn Jr. on Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield. The visitors, who will be here until September, flew first to Lebanon, then Athens, Paris, Copenhagen and London. From there they went to New York to visit three and a half weeks with Mrs. Gunn's family in Long Island.

EILEEN LOUISE MAYER

Other guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Munson's two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Ben Munson and Mrs. Elroy (Jim) Munson, Mesdames Edward Sargent, Bertram Koel, James Schryver, Fred Sarbach, Sy Yuam, Jerrol Flood, Bonar Bell, Arthur Knutson, Douglas McClellan and Robert Brannan.

EILEEN LOUISE MAYER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Mayer of Mill Valley, will spend the summer in Europe. She flew to New York and was a week sightseeing before she flew to Vienna. She'll visit relatives in Austria and accompany them on trips to Italy and France. En route home Eileen will visit relatives in Ireland.

MR. AND MRS. BRANWELL FANNING of the Reedlands, will entertain at shipboard parties aboard the SS Orin Oriana which is docked in San Francisco Bay today and tomorrow. The Fannings with their two older daughters, Diane and Barbara flew to Canada where they boarded the ship in Victoria. They sailed from there to San Francisco and will be aboard the Oriana when it arrives in San Diego. The Fannings and their girls will fly back to San Francisco from there.

Not long before they left on the cruise, the Fannings and their three daughters, Diane, Barbara and Kathleen, and Mr. and Mrs. Houston Lever of Reedlands, their daughter, Barbara and Mrs. Fanning's mother, Mrs. Frank Winterson of San Francisco, stayed a week at Miwok Village in the Yosemite.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD E. RHOADES of Mill Valley observed their thirteenth wedding anniversary in an original manner. They were remarried in the courthouse in Virginia City, Nev., where they had exchanged marriage vows, 13 years ago. They had obtained another marriage license and Mr. Rhoades put a new wedding ring on his wife's finger. When she was critcally injured in an accident two years ago, her first wedding ring was so badly damaged she never wore it again.

The only thing different from the first marriage was that Mr. and Mrs. Rhoades' two children, Diane, 10, and Ricky, 8, were their witnesses. Mrs. Rhoades recalled that Virginia City was a real ghost town when she and her husband were married there 13 years ago.

The Rhoades family moved to Mill Valley from Castro Valley a year ago. He is sales manager for a San Francisco company.

NORA JEAN NININGER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Nininger of San Rafael, has been named social chairman for Alderwood Hall, her residence house on the Mill College campus. A graduate of Redwood High School, Nora Jean will be a sophomore when classes resume at Mills College Sept. 24.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE Vescovi of San Rafael are sailing Monday on the Matsonia for a three weeks vacation in Hawaii. With them are his son, Donald, and Dennis Rocca.

Mink Sweater Newest Status Symbol In Your Fur Wardrobe

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — The newest status symbol in a fur wardrobe is the mink sweater.

Mink in dark tones showed in sleeveless sweater versions numerous times in fall and winter collections of women's wear being shown this week and through Tuesday of next for the nation's fashion press.

In sweater, blouse or weskit version, mink was combined with tweed or other wools for suit costumes. Maurice Rentner showed the fur toppings with salt and pepper tweed skirts.

MONTE SANO & Pruzan showed the jerkin or weskit in various shades of dark mink over wool shift dresses. Pauline Trigere topped a long black evening dress of crepe with a sleeveless sweater of white mink.

A roundup of styles from American furriers, presented by the fur information and fashion council for the visiting editors included a sweater fit for a queen—bleached Canadian ermine, with the skins sewn horizontally.

ALSO INCLUDED: A loose-fitting pullover in natural white rabbit, a sports sweater designed for campus and ski slopes.

Designers long have been in love with fur for trimming, lining, and for novelty items as well as for the basic coats, stoles and jackets.

For the new season, fur is what one major buying and merchandising firm, Felix Lilienthal & Co., called "The Great Roar" of fashion. Besides mink, the furs seen most frequently are fox, lynx, leopard, opossum, lamb, chinchilla, seal, and broadtail.

DESIGNER Fernando Sarmi showed a slim, button-front coat dress in Labrador seal, a dark gray mottled fur. The slim dinner suit in black broadtail is everywhere. Pauline Trigere dyed opossum into a plum color to match the plum shade of a wool stole it bordered. Herbert Sondheim produced mink tippets, removable neckpieces for suits.

Several designers showed fur sleeves with slim-line wool dresses. One raspberry wool costume had black seal sleeves to the wrists. Long haired furs were used for collars and cuffs, or the border of a hemline. Paul Parnes combined deep brown matelasse with fur in a sheath dress topped by a hip-length jacket. Cuffs were fur.

THE FUR council's show included a leopard trench coat, which changed its spots—it reversed to a waterproof green velvet evening wrap; a copy of the navy pea jacket done in patterned calfskin; and a couple of newcomers to the industry, buffalo sheared to a silky finish, and ranch nutria, a deep brown tone.

The two major designers of ready-to-wear who showed their collections yesterday were Rentner and Larry Aldrich, president of the New York couture group of designers.

RENTNER'S designer Bill Blass produced a leopard Babushka, just one phase of his overall "sportive" or country look moved to town. Opening numbers in the collection were walking skirts coming just to the knee and shown with slip-on suede boots with flat heels; a cavalry twill trench coat with knee-high suede boots; jumper dresses; and through the collection of day clothing, such typically casual materials as corduroy, camel's hair, tweed, and twill.

ALDRICH'S designer, Marie McCarthy, showed casual for day also, with shoulders looking wider than in previous seasons, although not squared off; a raglan cut to sleeves; a lengthened torso, and a wandering waistline.

TWO-PIECE dresses, tailored like suits, came with fabric hip-band set in or with low slung belts to give a longer waistline effect. By contrast, wide sashing on other wools of grainy texture rode high under the bosom.

Honor Sonoma-Marin Fair, It Builds Good Citizens

The Sonoma-Marin Fair at Petaluma deserves more consideration than it gets from most of us here in Marin.

It is essentially an agricultural fair. Since Marin has become "cityfied" in recent decades, we tend to turn up our collective nose at agriculture.

But should we?

As measured by acreages or square miles, most of Marin in private ownership is still classified as agricultural. And thank God for that.

Home and apartment developments are sweeping across our rolling hills where cows grazed only a few years ago.

As long as a major part of our county remains agricultural, our natural scenery tends to remain largely undisturbed, preserving some of Marin's character of yesteryear.

So we would do well to accord more recognition to agriculture in Marin. The Sonoma-Marin District Fair provides one of the few opportunities to do this. We should not ignore it.

The Petaluma Fair, as it is more familiarly known to oldtimers, is mostly a junior livestock fair. That is, it attracts mostly 4-H Club participants and members of the Future Farmers of America.

The Future Farmers, as the name indicates, comprises those with a vocational interest in agriculture. The 4-H Clubs formerly were predominently the same. In recent years, however, the trend changed somewhat. While 4-H Clubs have NOT kept pace with growth in agricultural areas like the great central valley of California, they have mushroomed in suburban and urban fringe areas.

Does this mean that a lot of city-type people are nurturing youngsters for a return to the farm? No, we don't think so.

We think it is evidence that a lot of city people want to give their youngsters the opportunity for exposure to agriculture. Many of the youngsters are attracted to it as "something different." So 4-H Clubs mushroom with members who have no intention nor desire to engage in vocational agriculture.

Altogether, more than 400 youngsters mostly from Marin and Sonoma Counties will display more than 1,700 entries in the Fair now in progress.

We would judge that there are almost no "delinquents" among the 400. And we would guess that there are nearly 400 good citizens of tomorrow in the group.

The Fair will run through tomorrow. It offers a schedule of special events and entertainment, including a rodeo this evening.

Those who attend it find it a pleasant outing.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to San Rafael City Councilmen Fred Jensen and Bud Baar for advancing the revolutionary notion that once a thing's paid for, the tax which was levied to pay for it should be halted.

BOUQUETS to all the law officers, firemen, airmen, soldiers and others* who searched so diligently for the missing boy, Wayne Frost.

A BRICKBAT right back at our correspondent who heaved one at us concerning editor's notes after letters. Any time we can shed more light on some timely subject we should, and shall.

A WILTED BOUQUET to the state, at long last calling for bids on a Lagunitas Bridge for which Marin approved plans and specifications last March 12.

BOUQUETS to Stinson Beach, home of rugged individualism where an unusually successful annual carnival raised $1,300 for care of three community center buildings.

VOTING RIGHTS PROPOSAL

Prospect Of Referees Might Start Rush To Enroll More Negroes

WASHINGTON (CQ)—Passage of the voting rights section in the Administration's new civil rights bill could result in appointment of federal voting referees to register Negroes in 261 counties, comprising part or all of 60 Congressional districts in 11 Southern states.

These figures emerged from a Congressional Quarterly study of all U.S. counties in which less than 15 per cent of the Negroes of voting age are registered to vote.

Under the terms of the new civil rights bill court registration machinery, including the use of referees, could be put in motion in such counties immediately upon the filing by the U.S. attorney general of a complaint alleging a pattern or practice of discrimination. Registration would then proceed while the voting rights suit was pending in the courts.

THE PROCEDURE would differ from the 1960 Civil Rights Act, under which a court case must be successfully terminated before voting referees can be appointed.

Experience has shown that protracted litigation can substantially delay any action to get Negroes registered in many Southern counties, even with federal suits filed.

The states with the highest ratio of counties with less than 15 per cent of voting age Negroes registered are Mississippi (76 of 82), South Carolina (26 of 46), Alabama (33 of 67), Louisiana (23 of 64), Georgia (36 of 159), Virginia (13 of 97) and Texas (22 of 254). Scattered counties with similarly low Negro registration are located in Arkansas, Florida, Tennessee and North Carolina.

In terms of Congressional district politics, the greatest impact might be felt in Mississippi and South Carolina, where many districts are composed completely or principally of districts where less than 15 per cent of eligible Negroes are registered.

ALMOST ALL of the Congressmen involved are conservatively-oriented Southern Democrats. Four, however, are Republicans: Reps. Joel T. Broyhill (Va.), Charles Raper Jonas (N.C.), Ed Foreman (Texas) and Howard H. Baker (Tenn.).

The new legislation seeks to prevent slowdowns in registering Negroes in affected areas by declaring that individuals' applications be heard within 10 days and "determined expeditiously."

An ironic byproduct of the legislation might be a rush by white voting officials in some counties to enroll enough additional Negroes to bring the figure up to 15 per cent and thus preclude appointment of a federal voting referee who might quickly register a far greater percentage.

Experience under the 1960 Act has shown that a strong court injunction often has resulted in the registration of substantial numbers of Negroes without the necessity of referees or direct involvement by federal judges.

WHAT CHILDREN EXPECT FROM PARENTS

How should a father and mother act towards their children? That was the question put to 228 boys and girls, ranging from 8 to 12 years of age. Their answers reveal more than a little wisdom.

1. Grown-ups should never quarrel in the presence of their children.
2. Treat all your children with equal affection.
3. Never lie to a child.
4. There should be comradeship between grown-ups and children.
5. Always answer questions. Never say, "Don't bother me now."
6. Don't blame or punish your child in the presence of the children next door.
7. Concentrate on your child's good points, not on his failings.
8. Be constant in your mood and in your affection.

It is not easy for parents to live up to their many responsibilities as God's agents in rearing their children. But their conscientious efforts are never in vain.

"Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, that they may not be discouraged." (Colossians 3:21)

Give all parents, O Lord, the wisdom, strength and patience they need to raise their children properly.

Tiffany Beach Project Aided

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Just a few lines to thank you for your nice editorial, July 4, re the Tiffany Beach project undertaken during my term as president.

I must admit that at times, I feared we had bitten off more than we could chew, but thanks to financial cooperation and free labor and equipment from helping hands, everything has been completed satisfactorily.

You also have our club's and my personal thanks for the publicity given our little project from time to time through Bruce Colman's reporting. The publicity attending such an undertaking does encourage the participants to see the project through to completion.

Autos Termed Beach Menace

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

As a Bolinas property owner, may I express the thanks of the general public to our Board of Supervisors for the closing of Bolinas Beach to vehicular traffic as of last week. It was a pleasure to see people enjoying the beach without the fear of having their children run over by the numerous automobiles, trucks, and motorcycles which have turned the beach into a madhouse parking lot in recent years.

Contrary to the impression given by your article of July 4th, I believe most people heartily agree with the closing off of the traffic. Doubtless the protest cited therein was motivated by a fear of economic loss to local business people. However, it would seem that the improved circumstances will draw the public rather than drive it from the Bolinas Beach.

It may be pointed out that Mr. Jordan Martinelli, Jr. is mistaken in his impression that the Bolinas Community, Inc. tabled their considerations as to the closing of the road. In fact, after a number of meetings wherein the problem was discussed in great detail, it was resolved that the closing was desirable in view of the hazards to public safety and health, despite the inevitable hardships and inconveniences which would result.

The greatest hardship seems to have fallen on those persons who have used the beach to launch their boats. Possibly a future arrangement will be devised wherein access will be available for launching, provided the vehicles and trailers are not allowed to remain parked on the beach.

It is particularly discouraging that some people have taken the law into their own hands by cutting the chain across the road on two occasions. Once for the purpose of putting in a "private padlock," and once with permission given by the Sheriff's office in a middle-of-the-night "distress call."

Years ago Betty Comden and Adolph Green wrote a hilarious parody of Sigmund Romberg's "The Student Prince" that they named "The Baroness Bazocka." I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By WAT TAKESHITA

If You Want Bloodhound To Find You, Here Are Tips; If Not . . .

WHENEVER someone is lost in the woods, your first inclination is to call in the bloodhounds.

Their "radar" noses are surprisingly accurate, as proved in the hunt for an escaped convict in tall grass near Ignacio.

What most people don't realize is that a bloodhound does have limitations. Young San Rafael contractor, Michael McLean, who volunteers his dogs and his time free of charge, is the first to admit these limitations.

BLOODHOUNDS aren't magicians. You've got to give them something to go on. You can't just shoo them into the woods and say, "Go find John Doakes, age 11, height 5 feet, weight 100 pounds."

First of all, you've got to have some old clothes, socks, or bedding recently used by the missing person. The dog must get a good sniff of the clothing before any other person touches them. Because if a third person touches the items, the last person's scent is the strongest.

McLean, the dog's handler, may touch any item at will because the bloodhounds know their master's scent and know full well they are not being asked to search for their master.

IN THE SECOND place, bloodhounds do not follow footsteps or tracks. They depend entirely on body scent left in shrubs, grass, or ground. If the missing person travels over a dry, windswept ridge, the scent will probably disappear in a half hour to an hour. Scent keeps best in moist brush-covered areas secluded from the wind.

And the dogs must be taken to a spot where the missing person was last seen. You can't put the hound on Highway 101, point his nose northward, and tell him someone is missing near the Oregon border. His sniff can't possibly carry that far.

AND SO IF you're ever lost in the wilds and want bloodhounds to find you quickly, make sure you have the foresight to leave plenty of old clothes behind, and stick to low damp ground away from the wind. And as you walk, keep brushing your hands or body against shrubs, leaves, grass and trees.

While we're on the subject, hats off again to McLean. His actions are so selfless that he is sometimes misunderstood. He jumps out of bed in the middle of the night, packs his dogs in his pickup, and off he goes tramping through the wilds of Mendocino or Siskiyou, sometimes for days at a time.

And all of this for not one cent. On the hunts, he has the title of "sheriff's sergeant," but he gets no remuneration of any kind. Only the satisfaction of having served mankind.

WE'VE HEARD rumors that other bloodhound owners in California who are in the business for money have made generous offers to McLean to stop his volunteer service.

Both Eat-and-Run Restaurant and Red Robin Caterers came through with generous supplies of sandwiches and pies to supplement the Red Cross canteen during last week's search for the lost boy in Ross. There were many other unsung heroes, too numerous to mention.

Taxpayers Get A Cold Shower Indicating Need For Plumber

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Activities of the governor's office and the state legislature may seem passing strange to the public, in view of the special legislative session called to secure another 14 million dollars for state expenditure during the current fiscal year.

The legislature started its deliberations last January. Among other things, it is the responsibility of the legislature to come up with a budget designed to finance the operations of state government for a year.

The budget, which is prepared by the governor's office through the department of finance, wasn't ready for introduction until nearly a month of legislative sessions elapsed.

Then after it was introduced the legislators dallied in passing the document until the closing hours of the legislative session, on June 28, nearly six months after the members convened.

AND IN PASSING the measure, it was reduced to a degree the governor held was not adequate to meet the needs of California.

As a result, the governor called a special session of the legislature a week after the regular session adjourned, to present exactly the same issues he lost during the session.

Now, the legislature has met for a week in special session, and has apparently come to the conclusion it will give the governor almost everything he asked for in the beginning, with the exception of a withholding tax for California, and the possible exception of some budget items. On these there will be dickering because the governor chopped many items out of the original budget, particularly as they concerned the districts of the opposing Republican legislators.

As the state senate closed its secret meeting, at which strategy was determined, it appeared that the governor has sufficient votes on the basis of a majority ruling to pass the double tax program for banks and corporations next year, to raise insurance taxes, on which there is no argument, and pick up smaller items of taxes. All in all, this program would provide more money than is needed and allow a surplus at the close of the 1963-64 fiscal year.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of the bank and corporation tax collecting program of double taxes next year, the program now scheduled to go through is much the same as that offered by the Republicans at the close of the regular session.

Yet it cannot be said to be a Republican victory, nor can it be said to be a Democratic victory. Truth of the matter is, the entire program is one of compromise, the only losers the people of the state of California who pay the taxes which finance the government. The people lose because the legislature fails to stick to its original action of holding the line on the reduced budget originally adopted.

The entire operation, including the dalliance which delayed action on the original budget, thus appears strange and mayhap indicates some reforms are necessary in legislative procedure whereby the legislature must take considered action within the regular session before it votes to spend more than three billion dollars of money belonging to people of the state.

SHE'S GUNNING FOR YOU AT THE FAIR

Cute Bobbie Mayo plays a two-gun miss purely for publicity. Her purpose is to draw attention to the Sonoma-Marin District Fair, now under way at the Petaluma fairgrounds. Farm youngsters from the two counties have entered nearly 1,400 animals in the fair's livestock show. There are other attractions, too—aside from Miss Mayo.

THE MOMENT OF TRUTH APPROACHES — The spick-and-span Guernsey cattle are no less nervous than their equally spick-and-span owners as they line up for judging at the Sonoma-Marin District Fair. The show begins recognition to young people who are keeping alive area's reputation for fine farms.

HIGH PRODUCTION TYPE—Ronald Lear of Novato looks a bit worried over posture of his White Leghorn cock in pen of poultry show department of the district fair. White Leghorn breed dominates commercial egg farms, having been long developed for high production of those big white eggs. This Rooster had better lower those tail feathers, though, or the judge may disqualify him as a "squirrel tail."

FAIR TO END 4-DAY RUN TOMORROW

The Sonoma-Marin District Fair will wind up its four-day run with its biggest program tomorrow.

Heading the list of attractions will be the "chick-n-que," a tradition of the fair at which barbecued chicken is served at the fairgrounds picnic area at a dollar a serving. This will start at 12:30 p.m.

The fair parade, sponsored by the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce, will move from downtown Petaluma to the fairgrounds starting at 1 p. m. Parade awards will be presented in the "chick-n-que" area at 2:30 p. m.

There'll be plenty doing from the time the gates open at 9 a. m. on what the fair management has designated as "Petaluma day" and "family day."

Special awards presentations are scheduled at 9:30 a. m. in the dairy cattle judging ring. At noon, Crafts Shows will open on the carnival midway. Happy the Clown will perform on the fair promenade at 1:30 and 3 p. m. The Orems will present their show at the home economics pavilion at 1:30, 4 and 6 p. m.

Hindra, the Mechanical Man, will be presented in the main exhibit building at 2, 2:45, 3:30, 7, 7:45 and 8:30 p. m.

The Sunday Afternoon Review from the Gardenway Theater is scheduled at 3:30 p. m. At 8:30 p. m., it will become the Sunday Night Review.

Things will really start jumping at 4:30 p. m. when Frank Dean's Frontier Days Show opens in the western arena with wild-west entertainment for all. It will be repeated at 7:30 p. m.

Auto racing is scheduled at 8 p. m., to be viewed from the new grandstand erected to replace that destroyed by fire last year.

Rodgers Loses British Open Playoff

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY

LYTHAM-ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — Lanky, lefthanded Bob Charles of New Zealand quashed an American bid for a third straight British Open golf championship today when he defeated Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., by eight strokes in their 36-hole title playoff.

The 27-year-old Charles shot a morning-round 69 and a 71 in the afternoon for a 140-stroke-total that easily won him the $4,200 first prize. Rodgers shot rounds of 72 and 76 for 148 in his futile bid for the title won by Arnold Palmer in 1961 and 1962.

The victory made Charles the first New Zealander ever to win the British crown. And he also became the first lefthanded golfer ever to win a major international tournament.

In addition to the comparatively meager first-prize purse, Charles now faces an opportunity to pick up $50,000 in the "World Series of Golf" to be played at Akron, Ohio, Sept. 7 and 8. The British Open champion qualifies for the four-man field in the Akron tournament.

The 25-year-old Rodgers, who trailed by five strokes after the first two of the afternoon round, narrowed that deficit to one by the 25th hole. But after Charles had matched Rodgers' long birdie putt on the 26th, the Yank lapsed into bogey golf and rapidly dropped out of contention.

On that crucial 26th hole, with Charles leading by two shots, Rodgers rattled in a 50-foot birdie putt that appeared to have won back a stroke. But Charles promptly sank a 25-footer for a matching birdie that demoralized Rodgers.

Charles picked up one shot on each of the next six holes for an eight-stroke lead that made victory a breeze.

Charles led by three strokes at the 18-hole lunch intermission.

They had tied yesterday at the end of the regulation 72 holes with scores of 277.

Jack Nicklaus blew a golden opportunity to win the crown when he bogeyed both the 17th and 18th holes yesterday for a 278 total.

The playoff repeated history. Five years ago, Peter Thomson of Australia tied Dave Thomas of Britain on this very course and went on to win his fourth British Open title.

Gone from the scene was Arnold Palmer, winner the last two years. The leading American money winner never got started at Royal Lytham and finished in a tie for 26th place with 76-71-71-76—294.

PLAYING IT SAFE — Phil Rodgers flipped cap over 18th hole yesterday just so his ball wouldn't get away after tying for first in the British Open. The chunky La Jolla, Calif. golfer, however, lost the playoff today to New Zealander Bob Charles. (AP Wirephoto)

McCovey Soars While Giants Plummet

Willie Cracks 2 HRs, But S. F. Loses Ground

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Giants and Willie McCovey seem to be riding two different elevators: Willie's going up, but his teammates are drifting downward.

The Giants fell five games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers last night, bowing to Philadelphia 7-5, despite McCovey's 25th and 26th homers. St. Louis is treading on San Francisco's heels, 5½ games back of the leaders.

McCovey's two homers put him one ahead of Henry Aaron for the National League lead. At this time last year, he had collected 12 round-trippers.

Another significant difference from a year ago is Jack Sanford's pitching record. He was 10-6 then, but last night's loss put him at 9-9 for the season.

And this date a year ago, the Giants were just 1½ games behind the front-running Dodgers.

The Phillies wasted no time last night, pounding Sanford for four runs in the first inning. Roy Sievers' bases-loaded double highlighted that inning for the eighth-place Phillies.

McCovey's 25th homer in the third scored Chuck Hiller.

Philadelphia struck for their final three in the fifth, with Sievers, Clay Dalrymple and Don Demeter providing the big blows. Sanford gave up those runs before being lifted in the following inning.

KUENN HOMERS

In the eighth, Harvey Kuenn led off with his fifth homer, Hiller singled and McCovey deposited the ball in a street behind the ball park.

McCovey couldn't pull the game out in the ninth, however. Ed Bailey batted for Pagan and walked. With two out, Hiller also walked — and McCovey ambled up to the plate.

He struck out.

Art Mahaffey got his sixth win against nine losses for the Phils.

The series winds up today with Billy Pierce (3-5) slated to go against Ryne Duren (3-2). San Francisco moves to Pittsburgh for a double-header Sunday.

TRIPLE CROWN FOR KOUFAX?

U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers' amazing fireballer, is enroute to becoming the first hurler in a quarter of a century to wear pitching's triple crown.

The feat—leading the league in victories, won-lost percentage and earned run average—hasn't been accomplished in the National League since 1938 and in the American League since 1934. Only eight pitchers in modern history have done it and they read like a page from baseball's Hall of Fame: Walter Johnson, Lefty Grove, Lefty Gomez, Carl Hubbell, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Adolph Luque, Lon Warneke and Bill Lee.

Koufax, however, now leads the N.L.'s pitchers with 15 victories, an .833 percentage and a 1.63 earned run average and is on a hot streak of three consecutive shutouts and eight straight wins.

BRILLIANT GAME

The 27-year-old left-hander added another brilliant game to his 1963 collection last night when he beat the New York Mets, 6-0, with a three-hitter. It was his ninth shutout of the season—more thany any N.L. pitcher since Mort Cooper had 10 in 1942 and seven short of the league mark set by Alexander in 1916.

In addition to firing his third straight three-hitter, Koufax struck out 13 batters to raise his league-leading total to 163. He thus leads N.L. pitchers in five key departments—shutouts and strikeouts plus the three that would qualify him for the rare triple crown.

The Dodgers salted away Koufax' latest triumph, increasing their first-place lead to five games and dealing the Mets their 13th straight loss, with a three-run burst in the first inning. Tommy Davis started the rally with a single and there were key doubles by Frank Howard and Ron Fairly in addition to an error and a walk.

The Philadelphia Phillies enabled the Dodgers to pick up a full game when they beat the San Francisco Giants, 7-5, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 5-3, the Chicago Cubs topped the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1, and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Houston Colts, 2-1, in other N.L. games.

Gary Kolb's two-run homer keynoted a four-run third-inning rally which carried Bob Gibson to his ninth win for the Cardinals. Gene Oliver and Mack Jones homered for the Braves.

Bob Buhl gained his first win over the Reds since 1957 behind a 13-hit Cub attack that included Ernie Banks' 16th homer of the year and the 351st of his career. Steve Boros, Banks, Ken Hubbs and Dick Bertell had two hits each for the Cubs.

Dick Schofield's sixth-inning homer touched off a two-run sixth-inning rally which gave Don Schwall his fifth victory. Bob Bruce dropped his 11th decision for the Colts.

Semi-Pros Play This Weekend

The undefeated Novato Tigers, leading the also unbeaten San Anselmo Merchants by a half-game, take on winless Mill Valley tomorrow afternoon at Novato High in Marin Semi-Pro League action.

San Anselmo also has a chance to get fat on winless opposition, as it hosts the Bermuda Palms club in the second game of a double-header at San Anselmo Memorial Park. The first game features the Ongaro Plumbers and the Presidio nine, both of whom have 2-1 marks and trail Novato (3-0) by a game. The twinbill will start at noon, with the Merchants and Palms taking the field at 3 p.m.

GAME TONIGHT

Also a game back of the leaders at 2-1 are the Billings-Hutchison Builders, who take on the Dons of Marin (1-2) at Albert Field tonight at 8 o'clock.

Novato will go with its ace righthander, Ken Grayson, who has won all of the Tigers' games. His Mill Valley opponent will be either Frank Burch or Fred Thurman.

At San Anselmo, the Plumbers' Jack Sovereign will duel lefthander Ken Fujukawa of the Soldiers, and the Merchant southpaw Art Meyer will hurl against the Palms' Mike Cooney. Billings-Hutchison sends lefty Bob DeRosa out to battle the Dons of Marin and their all-county high school star, Steve Miller.

Ramos Favored In Title Go Tonight

MEXICO CITY (AP) — World featherweight boxing champion Sugar Ramos is a solid favorite for tonight's 15-round title bout with Rafiu King of Nigeria.

This will be the 21-year-old Cuban's first defense of the title he won from Davey Moore March 21 in Los Angeles with a 10th-round knockout. Moore died from injuries suffered in the fight.

A sellout crowd of 23,500, paying as much as $40 a ticket, is expected to see the outdoor bout in a bullring just outside the capital. Promoter Pablo Ochoa expects a gate of $160,000.

Ramos will get $40,000. King's share is $10,000 plus expenses.

The 26-year-old challenger predicts victory by a decision. He is ranked No. 1 by the World Boxing Assn. and No. 4 by Ring Magazine.

Ramos beat King by a disputed decision in a 10-round match in Paris last year. That loss was one of three suffered by King in 48 fights. He has one draw.

King is expected to go into the fight just under the 126-pound limit. Ramos is right on top of it and spent yesterday sweating it off for this morning's weigh-in.

In case of a rain-out, the bout will be held tomorrow. This is the rainy season and early evening showers are common, but the weathermen have predicted a clear night with temperatures in the high 60s at fight time.

Ramos left Cuba three years ago and has been fighting out of Mexico City ever since. This will be King's first fight in Latin America.

Fairfax Team Upset In Drake League

Santa Rosa Junior College knocked Don's Market of Fairfax out of the lead in the Drake High summer adult basketball league Thursday and enabled Cain's Tires to assume first place.

John Livie's 14 points paced Santa Rosa in its 37-35 squeaker over Don's, and Cain's romped past College of Marin 55-34 with Bob Stout scoring 16. Cain's now sports a 3-0 record, while Don's fell into a second place tie with Pinkie's Pizza at 3-1.

Pinkie's walloped winless Billings-Hutchison Builders 64-39, with Joe McGrath of the winners meshing 20 points for the top effort of the evening.

Old Soldiers created a three-way tie for fourth place by shading Shafer's Ice Cream 64-59. Lynn Livie scored 18 for Shafer's, while Dave Mathis led the Soldiers with 17. These two clubs and Santa Rosa all have 2-1 marks.

In a contest of also-rans, Locke Plumbers downed Eberhart's Service 39-35. Nick Willard had 11 for Locke, now 1-3, and Conrad Hoetger put in 12 for Eberhart's. The losers are now ninth at 0-3, trailed only by Billings-Hutchison with 0-4.

Mrs. Thomas Fires 81 To Top Marin Golf Tournament

Mrs. Jane Thomas shot the low gross score and Mrs. Maurice Soloman the low net Thursday during Women's Guest Day at Marin Golf Club.

Mrs. Thomas has 81-7-74, while Mrs. Soloman toured the course in 101-34-67.

The competition was close in Classes A and C, with Mrs. Aubrey Babson winning the former with 83-10-73 and Mrs. John McVey taking Class C with 95-22-73. Trailing Mrs. Babson were Mrs. Henry Rolph (89-14-75) and Mrs. Harold Baer (88-12-76), while Mrs. McVey was followed by Mrs. T. A. Fleck (96-22-74) and Mrs. B. J. Phelan (96-22-74).

Miss Marcia Lee walked off with Class B honors, shooting 90-20-70. Mrs. Hal White (91-18-73) and Mrs. Leon Balshone (95-19-76) were next.

Corinthian Yacht Racing Tomorrow

More than 100 entries are expected for the Corinthian Yacht Club's annual Small Yacht Racing Assn. regatta tomorrow. The race will start at noon off Keil's Cove, where the crafts will finish after traversing the regular Racoon Strait course.

The Corinthian club will play host Aug. 19-23 to the 110 International Regatta. Yachts of the 110 class from most of the major American harbors and some foreign ones will compete.

WILD FINISH

Brisk Winds Aid Trans-Pac Fleet

HONOLULU (UPI)—There was a distinct possibility today that leading entries in the Trans-Pacific Yacht Race would reach the finish line at Diamond Head late Monday after reports that the fleet of 32 boats had picked up favorable 20-knot winds.

A ham radio operator in Honolulu made brief contact last night with an unidentified entry which reported the strong winds were blowing directly astern. The winds, if they continued, would make for a wild spinnaker run to the finish line.

Yesterday's roll call of yachts was interrupted when the escorting Coast Guard cutter, Dexter, made a detour for an emergency call.

The incomplete roll call indicated that the 72-foot yawl Audacious held the leading position, 842 miles out of Honolulu. Close behind was the 72-foot ketch Ticonderoga, 857 miles out.

The Class A leader on corrected times was the Orient.

The Dexter made the emergency run to a yacht identified as the Double Eagle, believed to be out of California and bound for Hawaii. But it is not a competitor in the race.

Behind the two lead yachts in mileage yesterday were: the Kamalii, 891; Orient, 896; Queen Mab, 930; Astor, 945; Copperhead, 947; Legend, 951; Ichiban, 953, and Novia Del Mar, 964.

The class leaders on a corrected time basis were:

Class A—Orient, Ticonderoga and Audacious.

Class B—Copperhead, Legend and Ichiban.

Class C—Mistress, Patronill and Annietoo.

Class D—Islander, Tiae and Spirit.

Corona Brothers In A Rut: Both Pitch 6-1 Wins

Danny and Glenn Corona of 358 Holly Drive, San Rafael, seem to be in a rut, but it would be difficult to convince them that they should break out of it.

Danny, 14, pitches for the Casa Marin club in the San Rafael Pony League. Thursday afternoon he beat the Elks Club 6-1 on a five hitter.

That evening his brother, Glenn, 16, hurled for the American Legion Senior League team against United Market. He also won 6-1 and allowed five hits.

The two performances were not precisely equal, though, as Danny would be quick to point out. He singled and doubled for two RBIs, while Glenn could only walk twice and pop out.

Meeting To Organize S.R. Softball League

A managers' meeting will be held next Tuesday to organize the San Rafael Recreation Department Adult Softball League. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Albert Field.

Director Joseph Rodota urges all persons or teams wishing to participate in the league to attend the meeting.

Pitcher Slams Two Softball Home Runs

Pitcher Al Lowe blasted two home runs, one a grand slam, and his brother Eroll and catcher Al Baldwin belted two more to pace Country Club Bowl to a 13-3 softball romp Thursday over Villa Lucchesi of San Geronimo.

Al Lowe hit his grand slam in the fourth inning after three safe bunts had loaded the bases.

'INCREDIBLY CONFUSING'

Archery Season Opens, But Hunting Rules In A Mixup

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Deer hunting started in California's coastal hills today, but it took a last-minute opinion from the state's attorney general to make it legal.

And it may take an act of the legislature to unscramble a mixup in other hunting rules that resulted from the lawmakers' earlier failure to renew the powers of the State Fish and Game Commission.

It wasn't clear until Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk issued a stop-gap opinion yesterday afternoon that bow and arrow hunters already in the field for a special archery hunt were hunting, not poaching.

Still in doubt today were dates for three more deer seasons, bear hunting and all upland game hunting in a state with more than 600,000 licensed hunters.

The State Fish and Game Department called it "incredibly confusing." The attorney general described it as "utter chaos" and said a full opinion wouldn't be ready until next week.

Sportsmen, the state resources administrator and fish and game officials have asked Gov. Edmund G. Brown to submit the question to a current special session of the legislature. He refused earlier, but was expected to reconsider in view of the mounting confusion.

The Fish and Game Commission had adopted 1963-64 regulations on May 24, to take effect July 1. But when the routine bill to renew the commission's regulatory powers got caught in a legislative feud and killed, the confusion started.

One state law said the commission's powers lasted 91 days after the June 21 adjournment of the legislature's regular session. But another said the rules in effect that day—last year's rules—remained in force.

A deputy attorney general advised the department the new rules were invalid.

The department scrapped the rules and declared 1962 seasons, limits and other regulations in force. That meant Sunday opening dates, instead of the traditional Saturday openers, and the early archery season opening today wouldn't start until a week from Sunday.

The legislature's own lawyer, Legislative Counsel A. C. Morrison, disagreed. He said the 1963 rules were in effect, at least for 91 days. But no one was sure what happened after that, when the regular inland deer season and upland game seasons were due.

Troppmanns—Dad And Lad—Await All-Star Classic

By GLENN BECKER

Jim Troppman of Corte Madera has been a young man of many roles. He was president of the Redwood High School student body during the past year. He was catcher on the Giant baseball team. He was a delegate to Boys State and was nominated for the Northern California Grid Hall of Fame Dinners because of his academic and athletic ability. Jim has even had experience in organizing a 50-mile hike and, of course, was one of those who finished it.

It is none of these activities, however, that will cause him to appear on television screens throughout Northern California the night of Thursday, Aug. 1.

The role that Jim will occupy that evening, and for the last time, is that of accomplished quarterback on a fine high school football team. It will be the finest he has ever played on, the North squad in the annual Shrine game at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Jim will be anything but lonely in the mammoth Coliseum, for on the sidelines helping to coach the North team will be his father, Bob Troppmann, whose great success at Redwood High School has earned him the opportunity to lead a team in this edition of the state all-star classic.

Last year was a normal one for the Giant coach. His team won its third Marin County Athletic League title in four years, and also went unbeaten in league play for the third time. Only in 1961 did Redwood fall from its championship perch, and the six straight wins last year were ample proof that the slump was only temporary.

Troppmann Senior has been coaching football for 15 years. He came to Marin County in 1954 to coach at Drake High, where in four years his teams compiled a record of 16 wins, 17 losses and three ties. In 1958 he moved to the new high school in the Tamalpais District, Redwood, where his teams have won 28, lost 14, and tied two. In that first year they gave an indication of things to come by upsetting Tam 12-8, winning the District Trophy, and finishing at 4-4-1.

In 1959 Redwood compiled the finest record of the decade in Marin high schools. The Giants were "perfect" with eight straight wins and no losses or ties, and included three consecutive shutouts among their victories. As was the case last year, they had to beat Tam for the title in the new MCAL, and Troppmann's boys came from seven points back at the half to win 20-7.

The next year found Redwood winning another title, but early indications were of no such happy ending. The Giants were bombed in two of their first three practice games and were heavy underdogs when they opened the MCAL race against Novato. They fell behind 14-6 in the first half, but again proved themselves masters of the comeback and dealt the Hornets their only loss of the year, 19-14. Sparked by stocky halfback Mike Alessio and the linebacking Mikes—Hoffman and Walsh — Troppman's Giants did not lose another game and took their second MCAL crown.

Troppmann suffered his only losing season at Redwood in 1961. In winning only three and tying one in nine starts, the Giants surrendered both their league title and the District trophy for the first time, as they received their first thrashings from Drake and Tam. Learning the ropes in his first year on the varsity was a young quarterback named Jim Troppmann. His work last year showed just how well he learned.

The North should be in good shape if Jim can perform Aug. 1 as he did against Tam last Thanksgiving Day in what was easily the highlight of the season for both Troppmanns. In rallying his team from a 14-6 decifict near the end of the first half to their 20-14 triumph, Jim accounted for all of the Giants' points. He scored the first touchdown himself, threw for the last two, and kicked two extra points.

Though this was his finest game, Jim was a consistently dependable passer throughout the season. Including the 10 "strikes" he fired in the Tam contest, he completed 57 passes last year and six went for touchdowns. At six feet and 185 pounds, Jim is big enough to gain some yardage on the ground also.

As his selection for the Hall of Fame Dinner indicates, Jim was a mental Giant as well as a sports star. He earned a B average at Redwood, and will enroll at Menlo College this fall. Later he hopes to attend Stanford University.

It Looks Like Another Long, Hard Winter For 49er Fans

RANDOL

Football in July is as unlikely as June in January, but here we go again. The grunt and groan giants of the greensward are shaking the moths out of their uniforms and the kinks out of their muscles.

Already there has been one bit of business with last year's crop of college stars meeting at Buffalo in a sort of replay of last season's Rose Bowl. With similar results. The western boys squeaked out a win over the laddies from over the hill.

Next week the Vow Boys of 1963 start limbering up exercises over at Moraga. That would be the San Francisco 49ers, our brave knights of derring-do, who have vowed to win a few for "dear old Red" and "dear old Vic." And THAT would be Coach Hickey and Owner Morabito.

'TWAS A fine rousing thing to do, our 49ers calling a pep meeting and letting the loyal fans know that all was well in the ranks. And, incidentally, that it was perfectly all right for you to dash right out and buy an extra season ticket or two.

Which is like the yarn about the baseball Mets from New York who charged from their dugout shouting, "Let's go out there and lose another one for old Case."

Someone pointed out the other day that, contrary to common belief, the 49er personnel is not a group of old men held together by baling wire, but is actually one of the youngest clubs in the league. On an AVERAGE, that is. Which is like standing with one foot in a bucket of boiling water and the other in a bucket of ice water; on the AVERAGE, your temperature is normal.

ONE OF the sad things about the pension plans that have sprung up in sports is that the participants are going to keep trying for "one more year" so that they may qualify for a few more bucks when the payoff begins. Not that I blame the athlete for going for the extra geetus.

It strikes me that the way NOT to win in pro football is to gather a team composed of pensioners and wet-eared college grades. The record book proves my point. Locally, at least.

FURTHERMORE, ONE cannot help but observe that most clubs in the NFL try to improve and strengthen the weak spots by judicious trading during the off season. Not the 49ers. It takes real distress for the locals to get a man who is not hand raised and bottle fed on the home grounds.

When trades ARE made, they turn out to be dandies. For the other club. What ever became of Y. A. Tittle?

It begins to look like a long, hard winter for the long-suffering devotees of 49er football. Some resurgence on the part of Cal and Stanford may lighten the load. And there is always next year for hope and the Oakland Raiders for contrast, and can basketball and ice hockey be far behind?

ALL-STARS—Coach Bob Troppmann gets ready to center ball to his son, Jim, as they prepare for the North-South All-Star football classic in Los Angeles Aug. 1. The Redwood High School father-son team will lead the North team as Troppman will coach and Jim will quarterback.

QUITS AS COACH, BUT...

Beth Kaufman Still Quite Active In Swimming Work

Beth Kaufman of San Anselmo has resigned as coach of the Marin Pirates swim team, but the suggestion that she is retiring from the world of swimming immediately brings a spirited denial from the 68 year-old grandmother of nine who in the last 30-odd years has taught untold numbers of people to swim.

"I'm not retiring—I've got too much to do," she exclaimed when asked about her "retirement."

"Barbara Read is coaching the Pirates, but I'm still on the Olympic Games Committee, I'm on the National Women's Swimming Committee and I'm registration chairman for the Fourth District of the Pacific Swimming Assn. No, you can't retire me yet."

BETH KAUFMAN

DEDICATED PERSON

She was quickly assured that the Independent-Journal had no intention of retiring her and indeed could not be more pleased by her intention to continue working with the nation's young swimmers. "Well, you know, I also want to see my nine grandchildren," she added, and Mrs. Kaufman's legion of friends must admit that this is the rightful privilege of any grandmother, and especially one who has dedicated half of her life to helping others.

It was back in 1923 that Mrs. Kaufman decided to devote herself to swimming instruction. The tragic experience of watching helplessly while a close friend drowned convinced her that she should enroll in the late Commodore Wilbur Longfellow's Red Cross lifesaving program. This pro lifesaving program. This proved to be a fortunate step, not only for Mrs. Kaufman but also for all the people whom she has taught to swim.

Besides instructing so many people, probably Mrs. Kaufman's greatest contribution to swimming has been the AAU Age Group Program. It gives young stars a chance to swim against their peers instead of having to compete at the outset against internationally established swimmers. She has chaperoned some of America's greatest swimmers, including Pat McCormick and Shelley Mann, on foreign tours, and served as an official at major swim meets.

HOPPING AWARD

In 1956 Mrs. Kaufman was secretary of the United States Women's Olympic Swimming Committee, and the same year was the first individual to receive the International Amateur Athletic Union's "Hopping Award," which goes annually to the world's outstanding contributor to amateur swimming. The previous two years it had gone to Japan and Argentina.

When asked how many people she has taught to swim during the past 30 years, Mrs. Kaufman replied, "Lord only knows, but if I am responsible for saving just one life then I feel my years of teaching have been successful."

This is certainly an eloquent summation of Mrs. Kaufman's vital and unselfish approach to what she terms her "hobbies—youngsters and swimming."

Treadway Leads Keg Scores

Dick Treadway and Bill Kundlinger paced the men and Peg McMurtry and Elinor Davis topped the women in series action at Greenbrae Lanes during the past week.

Treadway rolled 215-226-634 in the Swiss Doubles for the best three-game set, and Kundlinger marked 200-213-756 in the Monday Men's Trio League to claim the top four-game series.

Peg McMurtry had a 572 series in which her 234 game was tops for the week among the girls and tied Walt Carter for best game overall. She bowls in the Hits and Mrs. League, while Carter was competing in the Mixed Mates.

Elinor Davis bowled the best four-game series and the third highest game among the women. She rolled 190-190-717 in the 476 Scratch Trio League, and had a 218 game in the Hits and Mrs. division. Janice Guerin had the second best game, a 221 notched in the 476 Scratch Trios.

Young S.F. Stars In Nat'l Publinx Final

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Steve Oppermann and Bob Lunn, two powerful young San Francisco golfing acquaintances who never had met in match play, tangle at 36 holes today for the National Public Links Championship.

Oppermann, a 6-foot, 195-pounder who spent the last 3½ years "just playing golf," unleashed his deadly irons on the back nine of yesterday's second semi-final round for a 4 and 3 victory over veteran Dante Vicini of Ottawa, Ill.

Lunn, nearly two inches taller but 15 pounds lighter, ousted hometown favorite Jerry Yuke 3 and 1 by dropping birdie putts on two of the last three holes.

Neither Lunn, an 18-year-old who couldn't even win the city high school title this year, nor Oppermann, 21, would admit to any shakiness at the prospect of playing for the most important title of their young careers.

"I play the course, not the man," said Lunn. "I just try to keep from making any bogies." He succeeded over the final 17 holes of his 35-hole semi-final match.

Oppermann said he does the same, but added he prefers medal play to the match play format of the Publinx.

Lunn is in his first Publinx but Oppermann advanced to last year's third round before losing.

Sohner Softball Team Sweeps 2 From Old Mill

Art Donati's clutch hitting and the steady pitching of Jay Leatherwood and Lou Perazzo enabled Sohner Tree Service to sweep a softball doubleheader from Old Mill Tavern, 4-2 and 15-2, Wednesday night at Albert Park, San Rafael.

Donati tied the score in the third inning of the opener with a two-run single to left-center scoring Ken Cuneo who had walked and Leatherwood who had singled. The Treemen then tallied unearned runs in the final two innings to nab the 4-2 verdict.

Joe Baucom's booming triple highlighted Old Mill's two-run first inning rally. Leatherwood then proceeded to blank the Mill Valley nine on one hit over the final six innings. The Sohner righthander struck out eight and retired the last 11 hitters in order.

Perazzo limited Old Mill to six hits in the nightcap as he coasted to victory behind a 14-hit Sohner attack. The Treemen scored at least one run in all but the sixth inning. Donati with a triple, three singles and four runs-batted-in was the leading hitter. Earl Beyer with three safeties and Cuneo and Earl Ramponi with two each aided the Sohner offense.

Archer Favored In TVer Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rangy, brown-haired Joey Archer of New York continues his campaign for an eventual shot at the middleweight crown tonight in a nationally-televised fight with Farid Salim of Argentina.

Archer, 25, seeks his sixth straight victory in their 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. ABC will televise it at 7 o'clock, PDT.

Ranked sixth among 160-pound contenders, Irish Joey hopes that an impressive victory over the 26-year-old Argentine medical student may boost him into consideration as a challenger.

Joey is favored at 2-1 over slender, black-haired Farid of Salta, Argentina.

Tiburoners To Play S.F. Club Tomorrow

The Tiburon Pelicans will host the powerful Ellis Brooks club of San Francisco tomorrow in semi-pro baseball action at Judge Field. Game time is 2 p.m. Righthander Jack Brewer will pitch for the Pels, according to manager Ed Vigno.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Slimness In Vogue, But Don't Go To Extremes; Attitude Vary

VAN DELLEN

Slimness is in vogue due to the warnings against obesity by the medical profession. But the creations of the fashion designers also play an important role, especially when their ideal figure is used in advertisements and brochures. This is part of our civilization and we cannot object, so long as women do not go to extremes.

But attitudes on the ideal form vary with different nationalities and social classes. Plumpness is preferred by some and others want their women obese. Unfortunately, fat is not always distributed in the right places. In some women it settles in the head, neck, and upper back—to create a masculine configuration. This is known as the bullfrog, buffalo, or humpty-dumpty type.

IN OTHERS, fat deposits cling to the lower abdomen, hips, and thighs. This is an exaggeration of our ideal feminine figure. Still others develop rolls of fat about the chin, breasts, abdomen, hips, and thighs. Generalized obesity also takes place in which the body and the extremities share alike. These different types of obesity may suggest the cause.

Some persons are obsessed with slenderness and watch every calorie they eat, or fast periodically. Fear may be responsible, brought on by emotional disturbances, or diseases that are aggravated by obesity. It has been said that many men and women want to reduce but are thinking only of the abdomen. They are more sensitive of this part of the anatomy than any other, possibly because of a strong erotic element.

THE SLENDER look also is preferred because it is associated with youth. This is understandable because, in America, youth is accentuated. We associate it with vigor, virility, and attractiveness. This may explain why so many men turn over a new leaf on reaching 50 and strive for that boyish appearance. In this respect, a weight reducing regimen has the same goal as plastic surgery—to improve the appearance.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SPASTIC CHILD

G. W. K. writes: What is done for a slightly spastic child?

REPLY

Any type of cerebral palsy requires a thorough evaluation of the child's physical and mental abilities. A child with slight spasticity may need very little care. In many instances, the parents are instructed to avoid reference to the youngster's difficulties so he does not become self-conscious or think himself different from other children. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cerebral palsy.

WHY FRY?

S. B. writes: Whenever I fry foods in grease, my husband complains of the smell and refuses to eat the fried food. Does this mean he has ulcer?

REPLY

No, but he may have gall bladder disease or be a bit squeamish about unpleasant odors.

ROSY-CHEEKED BOYS

Mrs. B. writes: My two grandsons get fiery red cheeks when they play outside. Can anything be done for this condition?

REPLY

Nothing short of keeping them indoors. Rosy cheeks are a sign of good health. Your grandchildren will survive, Granny.

BLUISH FEET

E. J. writes: What would cause the feet of a 42-year-old man to have a bluish color?

REPLY

Changes in circulation, especially when the legs are in a dependent position, as when sitting or standing.

Today's Health Hint — A man does not have to lose his physical fitness after age 25.

Revives Almost Forgotten Skill

ANDERSON, Mo. (AP) — Joe Reed's love of beauty led him to revive an almost forgotten skill—rail splitting.

"So far I've split out and laid up 130 rails," said Reed, who started the project because he decided the valley where he has a 63-acre farm near here "would be a lot prettier if I had a rail fence across the front."

His only concession to modern times is to use a chain saw to cut logs into nine-foot lengths. Then he splits the logs into rails with an ax.

Bicycle Vital In Job On Chesapeake Tunnel

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—A $15, second-hand bicycle is playing a small but vital role in the building of the $150 million Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. The bicycle belongs to Elmer Campbell, an inspector for consulting engineers on the 17.6-mile long complex of trestles, bridges, tunnels and manmade islands that will span the bay.

Campbell's job is to travel back and forth across the completed portions of the structure to inspect construction and check the strength of the concrete roadway. Rather than walk his "beat," which gets longer every day, he bikes.

13-Card Axioms Make Difference In Counting To Protect Defense

"Two axioms form the basis for counting:

1. There are 13 cards in each suit.

2. There are 13 cards in each hand.

So writes Marshall Miles as he introduces an important chapter in his new book, "All Fifty-Two Cards."

Opening lead — ♡ Q

Counting is the basis of your defense with the West hand. See if you can come up with the Miles solution.

You lead the queen of hearts, holding the trick, and continue with the jack of hearts.

Declarer ruffs, leads a spade to the ace and another back to the king, capturing your partner's queen.

SOUTH LEADS CLUB

Now South leads a club to the king, a club to the ace, and the queen of clubs to discard a diamond from dummy. He leads a fourth club, ruffing in dummy, and ruffs dummy's last heart in his hand.

The time has come for the diamonds. South leads the deuce of diamonds from his hand, and you play . . what?

If you're not ready with your play you may be out of luck.

COUNT AS YOU GO

The secret is to count as you go. You discovered at the second trick that South started with only one heart.

The play of the spades showed that South started with exactly five spades.

You made a mental note that South had seven cards in the two unplayed suits combined.

When South showed up with exactly four clubs you knew that he still had three diamonds in his hand.

PLAY LOW

Hence it could cost you nothing to play a low diamond when South led the deuce of diamonds from his hand.

You were still sure to win your two diamond tricks—and conceivably South may have a losing finesse to take if you conceal your diamond strength with a prompt play.

SOUTH FINESSE

This turns out to be the case. South may finesse with dummy's eight if you play a low diamond promptly enough. His best chance to win a diamond trick is to guess the location of the ten.

He cannot go wrong if you put up the king of diamonds; he may go wrong if you play low.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, July 13, the 19th day of 1963 with 171 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1787, Congress set up the first organized government west of the original colonies with enactment of the Northwest Ordinance.

In 1863, riots broke out in New York City against the draft law.

In 1865, Horace Greeley advised federal civil servants to "go west."

A thought for the day — Novelist Henrik Ibsen said: "I hold that man is in the right who is most clearly in league with the future."

'Self Sufficiency' Seen In Marin

By PHIL FRADKIN

Surroundings of great natural beauty combined with high levels of sophistication, education and culture have given Marin County residents a feeling of "self sufficiency."

This is the opinion of Dr. Torrey Johnson, founder of the Youth for Christ movement and its first president, who is conducting an evangelistic crusade at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Johnson gave Billy Graham his start along the crusade trail when Graham, then 20 years old, asked Johnson if he could work as his assistant in Chicago.

The early association has continued and was recalled when Johnson appeared on the television show, "This Is Your Life," which honored Graham.

In reflecting on the religious feeling he had encountered in Marin County since starting his crusade Sunday, Johnson said: "People here feel that they don't need God. They have everything. God is not vital in their experience."

What God can give, Johnson believes, is "a presence in the most critical times of your life . . . security . . . love and a sense of belonging."

Johnson, referring to the sense of belonging, commented: "That's why there are all these service clubs. It is some people's religion. There is a lot of loneliness in the world."

He emphasized that his crusade in Marin "is no more difficult than in other places. Human needs are the same all over.

"The approach is different. The message is the same, but the message is adapted to the type of crowd."

The "approach" starts with Hilding Halvarson, Johnson's assistant, who is a combination master of ceremonies, song leader and baritone soloist. Halvarson, who is a former furniture store manager, describes himself as "the salesman type."

It is his job, with the help of about 100 Marin residents who make up the choir, "to inspire the crowd to sing." This "sets the stage" for the appearance of Johnson.

Johnson believes there is "a tremendous revival of people who love to sing as a group. They like to do this more than anything else. They have been entertained too long by paid musicians."

After the "preparation," Johnson presents a "down-to-earth Bible message." The whole service is "undergirded by prayer."

Johnson began the Youth For Christ movement in 1943 in the Chicago area when thousands of servicemen were wandering around on the streets representing "a great potential for trouble."

He rented Orchestra Hall, which seats 3,000 persons, and "it was jam-packed every night."

The Youth For Christ movement, Johnson said, has now spread to 80 countries, with more than 3,000 clubs in the United States. Johnson is a member of the advisory board of Youth For Christ International.

When Billy Graham was a student at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., he presented himself to Johnson at the conclusion of one of his radio broadcasts.

Johnson said, "I was impressed with him, so I said 'come on.'" The result was that Graham worked for Johnson as an assistant from 1944 to 1949.

"I predicted at the time he would become an outstanding evangelist, but he went beyond all my expectations," said Johnson, whose crusades are conducted just like Graham's. He and his former assistant "are cooperating now, not competing."

Halvorson, who lives in Santa Barbara, and Johnson, a resident of Wheaton, are on the road for about two-thirds of each year. Their living and traveling expenses to Marin were paid by the 20 churches of different denominations, mostly Baptist, that are sponsoring their crusade.

In addition to their expenses, they get "something for our work" from the churches and from collections taken at the meetings.

Johnson said, "I told the Lord that as long as the money comes in, we will carry on. If it doesn't come in, we will have to stop."

In one week, Johnson hopes "to stimulate all Christians who come to our meetings to a larger commitment to witness and live for Christ. This is what we call a revival."

He also hopes that every Christian who is "reached" will in turn reach a friend. "Then we will be successful," he said.

The crusade, which has been drawing about 300 persons each night, will conclude today at 7:30 p.m. and tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the recreation center on Tamalpais Drive.

Smithsonian Institute Show Includes Marin Churches

Two Marin County churches, Trinity Luthern Church of San Rafael and the First Church of Christ Scientist in Belvedere, are among photographs of 12 churches being circulated by the Smithsonian Institute Traveling Exhibition Service.

The show, designed by Robert W. Washbish of 61 Ardmore Road, Larkspur, for the California Redwood Assn., has been on display since April 1 at the national headquarters of the American Institute of Architects in Washington, D.C.

The theme of the show is "invitation." The churches were chosen to demonstrate how an architect can help the clergy to bring more people to their churches.

Architect of Trinity Lutheran Church was Donald Powers Smith. The photographs of the church were taken by Glenn Mitchell.

The First Church of Christ Scientist was designed by Charles Warren Callister with the photographs taken by Ernest Braun and Morley Baer.

Photographs of the Methodist Community Church in Los Altos, which is included in the show, were taken by Ken Molino of San Rafael.

'A GOOD INVESTMENT'

Kentucky Man Realizes Dream Of New Church

By BILL HUDSON

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—S. M. Martin, once Eddyville's mayor, had a far-reaching plan in mind when he invested $6,000 in government bonds during World War II.

The proceeds plus some of his other savings have gone to build a nondenominational church on a knoll overlooking Lake Barkley.

Martin has invested about $20,000.

"This had a lot to do with my health. It gave me something to work for, something I really enjoy," he said.

"I hope it will be something that will, in a general way, help bring unity to Christianity."

Martin, a Methodist and Sunday school teacher, recalled a revival conducted by a family of evangelists in nearby Kuttawa Springs.

"They said, 'I care not what your denomination may be, if you're a Christian, give me your hand.' That was the finest meeting I ever saw."

When Martin invested in the war bonds, he wrote this statement:

"I have decided that every community that is large enough to support one should have a central place of worship, where any honest person may go and feel free to worship, regardless of his belief regarding the mode of water baptism or other religious questions on which honest people differ.

Therefore, I am investing in these bonds, not only to help my country win the war, but when the war is over, I am planning with divine guidance to use the bonds with interest to help erect a place of this kind."

Church Leader Says Seek Out Negro Members

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The fourth general synod of the United Church of Christ adjourned Thursday with a plea by its president to solicit Negro memberships.

"It is no longer enough to accept passively a Negro member to your congregation," Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster said. "You must welcome him. You must solicit his membership."

His remarks came after he successfully pleaded for the delegates, representing two million members, to reverse an earlier stand on the race issue.

Under his urging, the synod approved 308 to 129 a policy denying financial help to church-related institutions if they fail to have an open racial policy by July 1, 1964.

Counseling Concludes

Personnel changes at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael have been announced by Rev. Wesley C. Baker, pastor.

Rev. Glen Dale Hofstetter, head of counseling work, will leave. Hofstetter, an assistant pastor since Dec. 1961, has not yet accepted another position.

Rev. T. Royal Scott of Philadelphia will take on the duties of associate pastor in charge of Christian education on Sept. 1.

Baker said, "Having established a lay ministry to care for personal marital and emotional problems, the church now moves to augment its leadership in Christian education."

Lutheran Bible School To Start

"Walking With God" will be the theme of the vacation Bible school of the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, 1100 Las Gallinas Avenue, Terra Linda.

The school will be held on weekdays, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., Aug. 5-16. Bible study, handicraft, music and recreation will be part of the curriculum.

Registration of children five years old to the sixth grade will be held at the church July 27 and Aug. 3 from 10 a.m. to noon.

'NO CONFLICT'

Top Scientist Sees Need For Religion

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. International

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden is a noted scientist who serves as deputy chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He is also a licensed lay preacher in the Methodist church.

As a man who is deeply involved in both worlds, he sees no "conflict" between science and religion.

"Even a scientist needs religious faith," he said in an interview.

Dr. Dryden does not accept the cliche that religious people live by "faith" whereas scientific people live by "objective" knowledge.

"The areas of knowledge which one person can explore in detail and experience for himself, exen in a lifetime, are very few," he said.

Dr. Dryden said that some people "are led to a purely materialistic view of the universe.

Others, including myself, are persuaded that in the universe there are both the material and the spiritual."

Dr. Dryden said he had read an article recently by a scientist who felt that the apparent spiritual dimensions of human existence could all be adequately explained in materialistic terms.

"He was convinced," said Dr. Dryden, "that the inner life of man—his consciousness of self, his power of thought, his conscience, his ideals—were the direct result of the physical and chemical activity of the brain." He found "proof" of this thesis in "the fact that damage to the brain destroyed some or all of the manifestations, and that drugs could excite or pacify an individual."

Dr. Dryden said he found himself thinking about this argument one Sunday morning in church "when I should have been listening to the sermon."

"I recalled that at that very moment there were present within the room invisible electromagnetic waves from hundreds of radio and television stations carrying voices, music and pictures from many distant places.

"Although I could not at the moment hear or see them, I knew that if a rather complex assemblage of copper, glass, aluminum and a number of other scarce materials whose very names are unknown to most of us were brought into the room and properly adjusted, any one of these programs could be selected and heard or seen.

"I knew too that if I damaged the radio or television receiver, the program would disappear. But this certainly would not in any way remove the radio waves from the room; nor would it demonstrate that the entire phenomena were produced by the apparatus in the room.

Then my thought returned to my faith that there was also present within that same room, and elsewhere, an ever-present Spiritual Personality whose voice can also be heard by another, even more complicated, assembly of materials — the assembly of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and other chemicals which we call a human being.

"If a human being's physical body is damaged or diseased, the reception may indeed fail. But that does not affect the reality of the invisible spiritual forces, any more than breaking a receiver proves that there there aren't any radio waves in a room."

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

About music and sound. In early days, music was used by tribes to bring on rain, to heal the sick, to prepare for battle, to celebrate, etc. Although it is doubtful that music brought on rain, or healed the sick, there are many experiments being conducted with sound that do have practical value. Supersonic audio vibrations are being used in large vats of solution to clean metals and parts. High amplitude low frequency audio vibrations are used to shake tables upon which operational units are placed to test their ability to withstand shock and vibration. Audio waves are being used to bombard fresh concrete to allow it to settle evenly. There have been tests made that indicate that cows give more milk and hens lay more eggs when supplied with music, although there is not substantial data to prove the benefits. A farmer back East has made tests bombarding his corn fields with various types of music. He claims that he grew more corn per bushel in those areas that had music than in those areas that were without music. He even claims that the greatest yield was in the area bombarded with a constant tone of about 450 cps.

A professor in an Illinois college recently made some tests using background music where subjects were performing monotonous type work. His tests indicated that the production increased from 6 to 10.8% with background music.

You can make your working day more pleasant with background music. Medical buildings, dental buildings, super markets, department stores and banks have been using background music for several years. It not only provides a pleasant atmosphere for the customers, but it keeps the employees in good spirits. Statistics have shown that there is less employee turnover, sick leave, and tiredness among employees when suitable background music is used; and, that efficiency of personnel has been increased.

Is any kind of music effective? The answer is no. Music that is distracting is not helpful. The music must be very soft, and with a nice rhythm, not too fast and not too slow. The tempos of the tunes should vary so that they are not monotonous. Rock and roll and the like should definitely not be used. Music without vocals is generally more satisfactory. Proper background music can be leased. Please feel free to visit us or drop us a card for more information on appropriate background music.

A MAJOR PROBLEM in the garden where plantings are young is the achievement of an immediate sense of warmth while the growing things are still maturing. In the garden-pool-patio area of the Frank G. King home at 54 Lagoon Road, Belvedere, landscape architects Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes and landscape contractors Cagwin and Dorward achieved this through an imaginative use of brick, exposed aggregate and redwood in harmony. (Photos by Ken Molino)

THIS BENCH in the King garden was designed especially for the pool area. The high, slanted back and wide seat are ideal for sun bathing. Built-on tables at each end hold snacks and drinks.

STILL ANOTHER FEATURE which indicates the careful planning which has gone into the Kings' outdoor living area are the gentle steps which lead to the pool area. The use of the exposed aggregate concrete right up to the water's edge serves to create a spacious feeling in a small backyard.

IT WAS A PROUD DAY for trainees of the MARC-Marin Work Training Center for the mentally-retarded when they erected this new sign, signifying their move to larger and better-equipped quarters in what was once the nurses' home at the Marin County Hospital and Farm in Lucas Valley. Lou Yetter, the MARC-Marin director, left, shares the moment of triumph with three young people who were then training under the program operated by the Marin Aid to Retarded Children group. (Independent-Journal photo)

THEY CAN PARTICIPATE IN COMMUNITY LIFE

The Mentally-Retarded Learn Skills

By ISABEL LEMLER

Enrollment at MARC-Marin Work Training Center has fallen off so sharply that the project obviously is an unqualified success.

It's a paradox.

The enrollees are mentally-retarded, generally considered unemployable. But they have left the center for one reason only: To take jobs in the community.

When trainee ranks were thus twice decimated recently within a few weeks, Lou Yetter, MARC-Marin director, beamed with pardonable pride—and sent out an urgent call for replacements.

ENROLLMENT, HE reports, is now down to 12 trainees. But the staff and facilities are in a position to assist efficiently as many as a score of the mentally-retarded.

He is sure there are many idle, unhappy mentally-retarded thumb-twiddlers, sitting out their lives in back rooms, who could be habilitated to happy usefulness.

"Not all of them, of course, could ever hope to earn their own living," Yetter says, "but all could be helped to more active, fruitful participation in living."

TO ACHIEVE THIS, the retarded person requires special training, tailored to his HANDS WHICH MIGHT otherwise be idle learn useful skills at the MARC—Marin Work Training Center for the mentally retarded. Some trainees will then go on to hold jobs on the "outside." own individual needs and capabilities.

Completely individual programming, long a goal, became a reality in Marin in February. That was when MARC-Marin moved into the old nurses' quarters at the county hospital in Lucas Valley. The facilities had been leased for three years to Marin Aid to Retarded Children, which operates the center.

Up to then, programming had been limited by whatever meager materials and few trainees could be shoe-horned into a little shed on the campus of the San Rafael High School. That had been MARC-Marin since it started in September of 1959.

NOW, WITH FOUR times the previous space, plus proper electrical and plumbing connections, there is a complete housekeeping layout, power and hand tools to develop many mechanical skills and an outside area where boys can practice yard work.

There is also plenty of room for contract work.

This fulfills a double purpose—to train young people for outside jobs and to give paid work to those who function best in a sheltered environment such as that provided by the center.

Among the biggest continuing contracts are sorting and packaging for a large hardware firm, assembling and packaging wheel components for racing cars and preparing warp for the manufacture of woven blinds.

ALL THE TRAINEES work on such projects.

According to individual bent, many learn ceramics, weaving, carpentry, mimeographing, etc.

The largest number of job placements, however, are young women who have mastered the housekeeping skills such as cleaning, ironing and simple cooking.

Closed during August only this summer, MARC-Marin will reopen in September to start its fourth year.

From the outset, its operation has been marked by considerable community participation. The Junior League paid the director's salary for three years; College of Marin, with adult education funds, pays for the work supervisor; various other civic groups help.

ACTIVE IN planning and in securing community support is the advisory board, of which Mrs. Benton Sifford is chairman. Also on the board are Drs. Elias Katz, director of the San Francisco ARC Work Training Center; Ellsworth Briggs, director of adult education at the College of Marin; Janet Lyon of the Tamalpais Union High School District; Paul Stearns, psychiatrist, and William Nachtmann, director of special education at San Rafael High School.

Others on the board are attorney Robert Corlett; Dante Bagnani, president of MARC; Daryl Hopkins, county schools director for special education; Dorothy Chevalier, in charge of the State Department of Mental Hygiene programs for Marin County; Rev. John D. Riley, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; Mrs. James D. Green of the Junior League; George Scott, president of the Marin Building and Construction Trades Council, Mozart Kaufman and Bernard Kerns.

ONE OF THE MAJOR benefits which has been realized by MARC-Marin from its new facliities is the enlarged space and new equipment available for training young women in the housekeeping skills. Such training as that shown above results in the largest number of job placements from the center. At left, trainees are seen at work packaging in plastic bags small Japanese kites. The Swedish Hambo Tops The Hit List

When members of the Folk Dance Federation of California were polled to determine their all-time favorite folk dance, the winner was the Swedish Hambo. Or, more properly, the Hambo Polska.

It will, of course, be prominent on the program when the Marin Dance Council conducts its annual festival tomorrow on the College of Marin Quadrangle in Kentfield and in the gymnasium of San Rafael High School.

The 1963 event has been entitled "Fun in Marin on Bastille Day." But the dances of many lands in addition to France will be presented.

AND THE ROOTS OF some of the dances extend back not to one country but to several.

The Hambo is an example of this. For while it is in Sweden that it now enjoys its greatest popularity, it is a dance of many variations and is believed to have developed originally from Polish influences.

At the same time the word Hambo is a corruption of "Hamburg" and indicates the Germanic influence which has also been felt by this particular version of the polka.

OLDER FORMS OF THE polska or polka, like most of the court dances of the Renaissance, consisted of a slow promenade for the first part, then gyrating turns for the second part of the dance. The present-day Hambo Polska still retains that general form with some regional variations.

The version danced by Northern California folk dancers is described by Mrs. Gladys Brajkovich of Greenbrae as "the smoother ballroom type, such as is danced in Stockholm, as opposed to a more vigorous version that is danced in the rural sections of Sweden."

As part of the effort of folk dancing teachers and enthusiasts to keep their dances as authentic as possible, most of the music heard as accompaniment in this country for the Hambo Polska has been recorded or taped during actual dance festivals in Sweden.

Mrs. Brajkovich notes that the Swedish Hambo remains one of the most popular dances in that Scandinavian country.

"Folk dancers who visited Sweden and who attended a three-day fiddling and trade dance contest and also a bi-annual Swedish folk dance festival reported back that the Hambo was danced every other dance at such festivities," Mrs. Brajkovich says.

The fiddle, incidentally, is easily the most popular instrument for music at such festivals.

AS WITH SO many folk dances, the costume is an important part of the Swedish Hambo. Like most Scandinavian costumes, it is designed to keep the wearer warm in the cold climate of those countries as well as for adding color to the performance.

Marie and Joe Angeli, "Mr. and Mrs. Folk Dancing" in Marin, are the proud possessors of such authentic costumes, the result of the painstaking research program carried on by the costume clinics of the Marin Dance Council and the skilled needle and scissor work of Mrs. Angeli.

Other folk dancers, too, may be sporting Hambo costumes at tomorrow's festivities which will run from 1:30 to 5 p. m. outdoors on the college campus and from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. indoors in the high school gym.

Scandinavian wear, however, will be only one of many nationalities which will be represented in the beautiful costumes to be worn by the swirling and high-stepping folk dancers.

THE PUBLIC IS invited to both the afternoon and evening sessions, and there is no admission charge.

And if the spectators acquire a desire to take up folk dancing themselves, then a beginners' class in the basic fundamentals of folk and square dancing will begin next Thursday at 8 p. m. in the San Rafael High School gym with the Angelis as the instructors and the San Rafael Recreation Department as the sponsor.

THE COSTUMES WHICH Marin folk dancing instructor Joe and Marie Angeli wear here is the authentic garb for the Swedish Hambo. Mrs. Angeli says she chose the Scandinavian finery because the Hambo is her favorite folk dance. Costumes of many other nationalities will also be in evidence when the Marin Dance Council sponsors its annual folk dance festival tomorrow at College of Marin and San Rafael High School.

Creating A Way Of Life

That's Objective Of An Inverness Potter And Wife

By RICHARD LYTTLE

At 36, Inverness artist J.B. Blunk's biggest undertaking is creating a way of life.

Blunk, his wife, Nancy, and their two sons, Bruno, 6, and Rufus, 4, live in a clearing in a forest of bay trees high above Tomales Bay.

Although Inverness is only a steep, five-minute drive below, the Blunk cabin seems to lie far in the primitive wilderness. The view includes a vast sky and a heavily-wooded canyon dropping down into blue shadows.

Blunk, a potter, has become a man of many trades. He and his wife have learned how to build houses, grow vegetables and fruit, raise chickens and guinea fowl and generally make do with what the land has to offer.

INVERNESS POTTER J. B. Blunk looks at some of the pots he has made and saved over the years. Most of his work has been sold. However, he has saved some examples of his work going back as far as 1952 when he was an apprentice potter under some of Japan's most renowned masters of the art. (Independent-Journal photos)

IN ADDITION, through odd jobs, Blunk has learned carpentry, masonry and landscaping. He also has done some art restoration.

The Blunks' adventure began seven years ago when they moved to Inverness. Artist Gordon Onslow-Ford offered the Blunks some land for the homesite. The Onslow-Fords, farther down the ridge, are the Blunks' nearest neighbors.

For four years the Blunks lived in a rented house in Inverness.

Using all his extra time, Blunk worked on the homesite, clearing trees, starting a garden and building a home.

THE HOUSE is of heavy, upright timbers. Some of them are driftwood. Others are timbers Blunk has collected from several sources, including timbers from the ways in the Marinship shipyards.

Except for a few days when a carpenter helped at the start, Blunk and his wife built the home themselves. It has a common room with a kitchen, dining room table and chairs and wood stove. The kitchen has an electric stove and recently-installed sink.

Off the main room is the master bedroom to the left and what will be a living room to the right. It is now used mostly for storage. A ladder here leads to a loft above the master bedroom where the two boys sleep.

A UTILITY room facing a porch off the kitchen houses a washing machine, sink, water heater and sanitary facilities. A pantry off the kitchen has a deep freeze and storage shelves.

Three years ago the house was far enough along for the family to move in.

"Nothing is really finished yet," Blunk said with a smile. "If you can find anything that's finished, let me know."

Blunk still cannot work full-time on the homesite. About four days a week, he takes on jobs throughout the West Marin community. This brings in the family income.

In addition, the family raises all its own vegetables and has fresh eggs and an occasional feast on guinea fowl.

THE BLUNKS have not rejected their fellow man, nor have they entirely rejected modern society — just some aspects of it.

Blunk believes that a life which involves a long drive to an office, hours of doing work that carries little satisfaction or meaning and a long drive home again can hardly be called a decent life. He also rejects the materialistic standards that many build their lives on today.

Artist And Family Build Their Home And Way Of Life

But most important, Blunk believes that the way of life he and his wife are creating will have a positive contribution toward his art.

"Many artists are creating art without any strong feeling about life," Blunk said. "Art is part of life and it must have a strong feeling behind it."

FROM AN apprenticeship of nearly two years in Japan, Blunk learned the influence of a cultural heritage on art. He does not want to extract Japanese traditions for his own work, but he hopes his way of life will provide a strong substitute for the cultural heritage that Americans lack.

A native of Ottawa, Kans., Blunk joined the Navy at the age of 17 and studied under the V-12 program. He left the program before his two years were up and was assigned to a PC patrol craft which sailed from San Francisco to Puget Sound where it was decommissioned. After this, he was discharged. He then enrolled in the University of California at Los Angeles where he studied art.

Graduating in 1949 and with some money saved from part-time jobs, he headed across the continent to Florida, bent on a year of travel. He joined the crew of a sailboat and sailed into the West Indies. For a time he worked in the St. Thomas Hotel on the Virgin Islands.

BUT AFTER a year Blunk returned to California and lined up a job as a teaching assistant in pottery at Mills College. Before he could begin, however, he was drafted. It was 1950 and the Korean War had just started.

"I couldn't believe it," Blunk recalled.

For a year, he was assigned to a training duty in Texas. This duty ended when he asked to be sent to Korea. He served in Korea for 11 months and then was discharged in Tokyo.

This is just what he wanted because he had plans in Japan. Having studied and observed Japanese pottery, Blunk was anxious to learn more about it. The apprentice system, he believes, is one of the best ways to learn.

HE WENT to potter Kitaoji Rosanjin and offered to work under him.

"It was a real experience. At first I knew very little Japanese," Blunk said.

His first job was grinding glaze coloring, a job ordinarily assigned to a woman.

After five months with Rosanjin, Blunk left and traveled to Inbe, a small town on the Inland Sea in the heart of the Bizen pottery area. Blunk sought out Toyo Kaneshige, whose work he admired, and again offered his services as an apprentice.

This relationship grew into a close friendship. The potter and one of his sons have since come to America and visited the Blunks.

KANESHIGE'S life turns around the union of fire, water and earth. Behind him he can trace generations through 500 years of potters.

Nearly all his pots are made for the highly-refined tea ceremony, Blunk explained.

Bizen pottery is made from a heavy, non-porous clay. It is not glazed, and the firing process, which Blunk was allowed at first only to observe, is critical and complex.

Blunk was doing work of his own during this time and had two one-man shows of pottery. From sales at these shows, he raised enough for his ticket home.

Soon after his return, he got an artist-in-residence position at Palos Verdes College in Los Angeles County. He was there nine months, only to see the college fold up at the end of the school year.

HOWEVER, it was here that he met his wife, a senior who graduated after majoring in human relations and comparative religions.

Blunk moved north to Sonoma County to live at Plantation. This is primarily a sheep ranch, but for three months it is a summer camp for youngsters. Blunk helped out with the camp program and worked with the sheep. In his spare time, he continued making pots.

About once a month he would go to San Francisco to talk with other artists and continue the courtship with his future wife. It was during this period that he met Onslow-Ford.

Mrs. Blunk said that when she and Blunk married in 1956 it was already pretty well agreed that they would live in the country and try to create their own way of life.

THEY BOTH admit that there have been discouraging moments, but generally they are still enthusiastic. Recently they started work on a stable-studio building. They have one horse and board another. The horses graze in a nearby pasture by day and are penned up in a crude rail corral by night.

With the studio nearly finished, Blunk's next project is construction of a kiln to fire his pottery. He hopes to have this finished this summer, then he will be back in the pottery business after a long interruption caused by house building.

His goal is to be able to support his family comfortably from the sale of his pottery, but he knows this will take hard work.

"But that's what I'd like," he said.

A CABBAGE IN HIS garden where he grows the vegetables for his family is inspected by J. B. Blunk. The garden also produces several kinds of herbs, some citrus, a green called Chinese garlic and most of the common vegetables.

Waking Up The Bay Area

Studio Technician Rises Early To Put Morning Show On Air

Don Ham of Terra Linda reports for work at the KCBS radio studios in San Francisco at the early hour of 5:45 a.m. And immediately, he is faced with a challenging task.

That job: To team up with disc jockey Dave McElhatton in waking up Bay Area listeners and starting them off on the new day with a smile.

McElhatton is the star of the KCBS show "McElhatton in the Morning Show," seen from 6 to 10 a.m. and the "Free and Easy" program heard 11:45 a.m. to noon.

MARINITE Ham is the studio technician who at 5:45 in the morning is just beginning eight hours of work that will test his capabilities and alertness to the maximum.

What are Don's duties as a studio technician?

First, he is responsible for transmitting to the listener every sound that is broadcast on the McElhatton shows. These include Dave's voice, music, tapes, telephone interviews, and special effects, of which there are many.

Don must work closely with both McElhatton and Walt Kraemer, the producer of the shows. When Walt thinks up something, Don must put it on the air in the manner intended.

DON NOT only has the responsibility for the on-the-air sound, but he also assists in preparing new material for broadcast. Approximately 25 hours each week are spent in the control booth with Walt and the tape machine preparing tapes for upcoming shows.

As Walt says, "Don helps me prepare beautiful moments."

Another asset that makes Don valuable to the morning show is his quick wit. He can adapt his personality to the style of what is happening at any given moment. This may be done by a timely sound effect or an off-the-air cue to Dave while he is ad-libbing.

"From a performer's standpoint," McElhatton says, "I need someone that I can bounce against for a reaction to what I am doing. Don fulfills this spot."

HAM BEGAN his radio career while he was going to school at San Francisco State College. Graduating in 1949 as a charter member and first engineer of the Radio and Television Guild, Don went to work for station KECC at Pittsburg, now station KKIS. Two years later found him in Wasco at station KWSO working as a "combo man" and doing a morning show called "Ham For Breakfast."

Don came to work for KCBS in 1952 and one of his first assignments was engineering the "Red Blanchard Show."

Don feels that his greatest responsibility is to his wife Joan and their three children —Michael, 7; Robert, 10, and Donna, 13.

When he returns to his Terra Linda home shortly after 2:30 in the afternoon, very little time is wasted. An avid "do-it-yourselfer," Don spends many hours working on his house and yard. He has just completed a patio and is now in the process of building a fence and planting a lawn.

HE IS ALSO a captain and charter member of the Terra Linda Volunteer Fire Department.

One of Don Ham's favorite pastimes is baseball. For several years he has coached baseball teams in the Terra Linda Athletic Assn. and last year his team, the Bears, won the Terra Linda Pee Wee championship. His team this year, the Athletics, a team in the Junior League, is well stocked with Hams — his youngest son Mike is "helmet boy," and his oldest son Robbie is on first base.

When Don is not on the baseball field with his team, he can often be found at Candlestick Park with his children picking up hints from the "pros."

Don also bowls a 152 average, and plays golf. He shoots in the 80s.

What does Don do with the rest of his time?

QUITE OFTEN he takes the family flying. Don has been flying since 1956 and is a member of the Alt-Air Flying Club which now owns a Cessna Skyhawk. Dave McElhatton is also a member of the club, as is KCBS' "Weekend 74" host, Deane Stewart.

How does Don Ham find time to do so much?

Don says he looks at life in much the same way that Patrick Dennis depicted his character "Auntie Mame."

"Life is like a banquet and I'll be darned if I am going to starve."

AT HOME IN Terra Linda, Don Ham is an enthusiastic and skilled "do-it-yourselfer," responsible for many improvements to his house and yard. Here, with the assistance of wife Joan and sons Robert, 10, and Michael, 7, he installs a bamboo shade for the covered patio he built. The Hams also have a daughter, 13year-old Donna. By DON KEOWN

"A suitable pet for a suitable home."

That is the policy under which the Marin County Humane Society operates the "adoption ward" at its shelter at 402 Third Street, San Rafael.

"We try to be fair to both the animal and the owner," Mel Morse, the society's executive director, says.

Thus, society personnel makes every effort to see that the "adoption ward" visitor gets just the kind of dog he wants and needs. And they also strive to make certain that the adopted dog is headed for a home where the proper facilities and care await him.

Morse says that some of the questions which the society considers in placing a dog are:

Is the prospective new owner interested in a watchdog or only a pet?

How many children are there in the family? And what are their ages?

How much yard space can the new owner provide?

Is the yard fenced? "It would be unfair to return a problem dog, for instance one with a record of car-chasing, to an environment where he would be tempted to resume his old habits."

What are the local leash laws if any?

Does or does not the new owner want puppies?

Morse says the society places little emphasis upon pedigree and papers. "We do place some pedigreed dogs, but we are interested in finding proper homes, not in the backgrounds of the dogs."

The visitor to the shelter's "adoption ward," open six days a week, 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m., usually finds from 15 to 25 dogs from which to make his selection.

Some of the dogs have been placed there for adoption by their previous masters who, for various reasons, are unable to keep them any longer. Still others are strays whose owners could not be found.

The new owner pays a flat "placement fee" of $5 regardless of the kind or size of animal adopted. The money goes toward providing continued care for the dogs and other animals which remain in the shelter.

It is then also up to the new owner to see that his pet receives the required vaccinations and is licensed.

And, needless to say, that his new responsibility and friend has a good home.

DOGS OF all breeds, mixtures of breeds, sizes, colors and temperaments await the prospective new owner when he calls at the "adoption ward" of the Marin County Humane Society Shelter in San Rafael to select a pet. Independent-Journal staff photographer Jim Kean has pictured just some of the "residents" of the ward on these pages. If you visit the ward, don't expect to find these same occupants awaiting you there. Most of them have, by now, already found new homes. But their places will have been taken by other canines equally appealing. Says Mel Morse, executive director of the humane society: "We aren't interested in a dog's pedigree and its papers. What we are interested in is finding it a good home." In other words: "A suitable pet for a suitable home."

Critic John Crosby Takes Witty Look At Our American Culture

By DON KEOWN

John Crosby's ability to be both witty and profound is not unique among America's columnist-critics. But Crosby possesses a finer sense of balance than do most of his colleagues.

He is a humorist without being a clown. And he is a social commentator, even a scold, without seeming a poseur.

Some of our California columnists would do well to study his style.

They can do so by obtaining a copy of "With Love and Loathing," a new collection of some of Crosby's most penetrating and entertaining columns.

His topics cover a wide range including, of course, television, movies and the theater where he is without peer. He delights in puncturing many of our over-inflated sacred cows. Even J. Edgar Hoover does not escape him. He is a persuasive voice on behalf of city planning for beauty and livability. He exposes the more ridiculous aspects of contemporary American "culture" — advertising jargon, the two-automobile family status aspiration, today's crop of young "pop" singers, etc.

He is, in short, an effective foe of the shoddy and the conformist—of "the homogenization of the world." He writes with irony, occasionally with downright anger, but also with fine humor. Ralph Gleason is the closest thing we have to him on the West Coast.

WITH LOVE AND LOATHING by John Crosby, McGraw-Hill Book Co., 244 pages, $4.95.

THE NEW NATIONS OF AFRICA by Ben Wattenberg and Ralph Lee Smith, Hart Publishing Co., 480 pages, $10.

WE AMERICANS are reminded frequently that we are woefully uninformed about the newly-independent states of Africa, but seldom are we told what we can do about remedying that defiiency. Here, then, is our solution:

Acquire and use Ben Wattenberg and Ralph Lee Smith's "The New Nations of Africa." It is an educational book of the best kind, informative without being dull, interesting without being frivolous. Beautifully illustrated and packaged, it presents a wealth of material on 29 threshold nations in a format easily read and absorbed.

Wattenberg and Smith take up the fledgling nations, one by one. A certain amount of the material is presented in statistical form. But much of the background material — historical, geographical, sociological, political, economical, cultural, etc.—is served up in a lively writing style.

The co-authors show a fine ability for selecting the meaningful and disregarding myths while dissolving old confusions.

The chapter on Algeria stands as a shining example.

The photographs are worthy of special mention. Camera work of the highest quality is superbly reproduced. There are 305 such photos and 30 maps.

This book can be of immeasurable value to students as a reference source. But it can also be of great benefit and interest to the rest of us who stumble and wonder when we encounter such names as Burundi, Gabon and Dahomey in our newspapers.

Sleuths & Suspense

THE WEIRD WORLD OF WES BEATTIE by John Norman Harris, Harper and Row, 216 pages, $3.95.

John Norman Harris has written a satisfactory, although hardly outstanding, suspense-mystery in his "The Weird World of Wes Beattie."

Set in Canada, it is the story of an elaborate scheme aimed to capitalize upon a youth's reputation for prevarication. Lawyer Sidney Grant, however, finds evidence that Wes Beattie's story, unlikely though it sounds, may not be purely imaginary. And with the assistancce of Wes' vivacious sister June, he sets out to untangle and expose the complicated plot.

Written with a bit more dash and less restraint, the story could have been a corker. As it is, it is well worth reading.

FROM THE JACKET of "Treasures of Venice," a new Skira Art Book with text by Michelangelo Muraro and Andre Grabar, shows the detail of bronze horses from the First Century B.C. which stand in the loggia of St. Mark's in Venice. There are 125 reproductions, 85 in full color, in the book distributed by World Publishing Co.

A Lively Tale

ALMOST PARADISE by Luis Spota, translated from the Spanish by Ray and Renate Morrison, Doubleday, 391 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Corena Green.

Here is a book in which there are no heroes unless you count a johnny-come-lately immigration officer who cheerfully bids Prince Ugo "Godspeed" as he ships him off into the wide blue yonder, designation unknown.

There are only villains, in various shades of black and gray.

There is one heroine— a pale sort of a girl woefully caught up in her father's search for prime status in cafe society as he determinedly courts the prince. And therein lies the plot of the book.

Mexican socialites are left gasping with admiration at the suave, gracious, handsome, knowledgeable, aristocratic Prince Ugo Conti (born Amadeo Padula to a Neopolitan prostitute, father unknown).

The bogus prince arrives penniless in Mexico but ready to play a king-size con game with the gullible members of the international set. He emerges regally head and shoulders above the high society peasants who submissively become his abject subjects, who pay his bills and vie with one another for just a smile from the "royal" countenance.

Although he is planning to steal everyone blind, one sympathizes with the Prince and when the roof caves in, as inevitably it must, the reader does not despair that all is over for his majesty. There are many worlds for him to conquer.

The book suffers not at all by translation. It is a lively tale well told.

History Of A Mine

THE NEW ALMADEN QUICKSILVER MINE by Kenneth M. Johnson, Talisman Press, 106 pages, $8.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"Of the famous cases," wrote Hubert Howe Bancroft, "the claim of Andres Castillero for the New Almaden quicksilver mine was probably the most important and complicated."

"In the bulk of record, and the magnitude of the interests at stake," wrote Jeremiah S. Black, ex-United States attorney general, "this is probably the heaviest case ever heard before a judicial tribunal."

With these quotations, Kenneth M. Johnson opens his history of "The New Almaden Quicksilver Mine." It is a history followed largely through the records of litigation for ownership of the mine in the Coast Range foothills of Santa Clara County. And interwoven into it is the struggle between the United States and Mexico and the seemingly fixed decision of the U.S. government not to let foreign owners control an American mineral property.

The tale is fascinating, though complicated. Author Johnson has not tried to wring from it the ultimate in dramatic value. He tells it factually, from the record, mostly chronologically.

The publishers have illustrated the volume with engravings in style contemporary to the period described, and with photographs from the Bulmore-Winn Album produced by one of the groups contending for the mine.

Mose Has Himself A Gimmick

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

Two distinctive vocalists:

SWINGIN' MACHINE, Mose Allison—Atlantic Stereo 1398.

Mose Allison has made a secure place for himself in the jazz world, even though neither his voice nor his piano-playing are exceptional.

His "gimmick" is the weird combination of dry Southern country blues vocals with swinging modern jazz piano stylings.

His latest album adds a trombone and tenor saxophone to the usual trio. The new members of the group fit well into the Mose Sound Pattern.

Six of the eight tunes on this LP are Allison originals. His tunes are catchy and his lyrics are wonderful statements of the blues-singer's philosophy.

Here is another jazz figure who does not sound in the least way "white," so authentic is his sound, yet white he is.

YAFFA YARKONI—International Song Collection — Prestige International Int 13067.

This Israeli singer, as easy on the eyes as on the ears, made a successful appearance at last year's Monterey Jazz Festival, though she is not a jazz vocalist. Israeli and associated Slavic songs are her forte, much as is the case with Theo Bikel.

This recital includes such better-known songs from around the world as "Moscow Nights" and "Moon River."

There are lots of albums similar to this one, and I'm sure some may be better, but I found this enjoyable.

COSTUME DESIGNER for the new Straw Hat Revue, "To Soothe the Savage . . . ," which opened this week at Festival Theater in San Anselmo, is Maureen Simoneau Sullivan, formerly a dancer with the San Francisco Ballet and now a Kentfield resident. Here she tries a cadet's cape on musical director Fae McNally of Woodacre. Elizabeth Berryhill of San Anselmo, who is directing the evening of satire, music and fun, is at right. "To Soothe the Savage . . . "plays Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights in the theater on the campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

"SHOULD MY FLUORESCENT WHITE DRESS BE DRYCLEANED?"

Yes, that is preferable to washing it yourself and putting it in the sun to dry. Fluorescent whites have a strong tendency to turn yellow in the hot sun. It makes no difference what the fiber, whether vegetable, animal or synthetic, fluorescent brightness will change when exposed to light for long periods.

While drycleaning does not remove the brightness of fluorescent-dyed fabrics, a change in brightness may be noted. That is due to the removal of soil which hid the change which occurred while the garment was worn.

Most brightening agents are moderately fast and comparatively free from discoloration. However, if you should expose them to hot sun or pressing with a hot iron whites tend to yellow. If the original whiteness has been lost and the fabric is not too badly discolored, it may be possible for your drycleaner to treat it with a fluorescent brightener or detergent that contains a brightener.

Consult your drycleaner. If it is still bright white, by all means have your dress drycleaned.

PRIVATE DECKS OF the newest Bon Air apartment building overlook a wide expanse of Corte Madera Canal, Marin hills and Mt. Tamalpais. On the vacant area bordering the canal, other apartment units with dock facilities are to be erected, and nearby a new Bon Air swimming pool will be constructed.

Here's An Idea For Deck Of Your Own—

Handyman's Page

Here's an idea for an outdoor entertainment center which can be added to an older home easily and inexpensively.

A Portland, Ore., landscape architect designed a three-tiered wood deck which covers most of the rear of an older home and creates a most exciting outdoor living area.

The three-level deck is designed in a semi-curve so it looks like half of a wedding cake.

The upper level is at the same level as the floor of the home and is intended for eating. A cleverly designed work surface contains storage beneath for most-needed barbecue tools, briquets and a small sink which is covered by a tip-down top.

The next lower level has some interesting conversation spots in the form of railed banquette seats, as does the lower level. Most of the installation is covered so that it can be used during the fall and spring rainy season when it is warm outside.

The deck is substantially built with Douglas fir framing lumber and two-by-fours have been used for the deck surface. They have been laid with the wide side up and spaced slightly to allow for water runoff but close enough so that ladies' narrow heels will not get caught.

The benches and railing are also of Douglas fir dimension lumber.

The entire deck has been stained.

This rather elaborate deck will completely change the appearance of a home and add another dimension in living.

"REALTY VIEWS"

Speaking the truth, as he saw it, was a characteristic of Henry Ward Beecher, a famous American clergymen.

Said Beecher: "There is a distinct joy in owning a piece of land unlike that which you have in money, in books, in pictures or anything else which men have devised."

William A. Lewis

Then Beecher tells why he believes this is true: "Personal property brings you into society with men. But land is a part of God's estate in the globe; and when a parcel of land is deeded to you, and you walk over it, and call it your own, it seems as if you had come into partnership with the original proprietor of the earth." That's certainly a partnership worth forming, isn't it?

In conversations with people of wealth, one fact stands out: Millionaires agree that the possession which gives them the most pride is land. People in all stations of life confirm that it is a real satisfaction to know that a piece of land belongs to them. Besides, well-selected land has proved to be one of the safest forms of investment.

Why not start today to acquire more land? It's a privilege few citizens of the world enjoy. We'll be glad to help you find the right property.

VERSATILE FAMILY

There's A Juniper For Every Purpose

By almost any standard, junipers are a fabulous family of plants.

They grow high, low and in-between, fulfilling a variety of needs that make our Marin gardens easier to look at and easier to care for.

As ground covers, the dwarf junipers have few rivals, thriving on unfriendly soil and with little or no attention. They are excellent foundation shrubs, too, and are equally good at lining a walk or filling in a rock garden vacancy.

You can even plant them in tubs or other containers to add greenery to decks and patios.

THE LARGE shrubbery junipers are substantial plants for wide borders, where they cover considerable space and blend well with other evergreen subjects. The California Assn. of Nurserymen labels them the best of all conifers for border use.

These shrubby junipers also make good ground covers, albeit taller covers than the more frequently used creeping varieties.

The taller, more upright junipers are wonderful for accent—against a wall of the house or a fence. Some of them are columnar and formal. Others, such as the Hollywood twisted juniper are informally dramatic and full of unrestrained beauty.

Junipers don't bloom, but they do everything else you might ask for. Let's look at some of the more popular forms:

A RELATIVE newcomer among the prostrate members of the family is the Wilton Carpet juniper, which almost literally makes a carpet of foliage on banks and/or level areas such as parkways. The foliage is a silvery-blue-green, which helps to make it a real winner in the nursery trade.

Long a favorite and still the most widely sold prostrate juniper, however, is Tamarix juniper. It makes an excellent full foundation shrub. The Pfitzer juniper is similar, but a bit more bulky and spreading to a wider diameter—possibly six to eight feet at maturity.

One good form of the Pfitzer juniper is distinctly blue in tone and fast becoming a favorite. You find it occasionally trained as an espalier in nurseries, or in a globe form for specimen use.

RELATED TO the above, but bulkier in height and spread both is the Hetzi blue juniper. This one has an appealing irregular growth habit that is excellent for broad foundation beds or for the shrub border—or as a specimen plant all by itself. The foliage tone is blue-green.

Of the completely upright forms, you can choose between pyramidal types such as the scopulorum varieties with bluish foliage, and the irregular Hollywood twisted juniper mentioned earlier.

This latter is a favorite up and down the state. Its deep green foliage and unrestrained growth will accent a wall like no other shrub we can name. Reaching 25 feet high at maturity (if unrestricted), it sends out twisted arms of growth which are spectacular.

JUNIPERS DO best when they are not given too rich a menu. They are better in a sandy soil than in one which abounds in such normally-desired ingredients as leaf mold or peat moss. They are better kept on the dry side than on the wet side of average moisture and need no supplemental food—in fact resent it.

You can give them some shade, but don't overdo it. Junipers are happiest in the full warmth of the sun.

THE MEYER JUNIPER is a medium-height shrub with an irregular outline that serves nicely as an individual specimen. But so diversified is the Juniper family that there is a size and shape for virtually every need. (California Assn. of Nurserymen photo)

Old Friends Are Often The Best

Summer-flowering shrubs are less plentiful than their spring counterparts, but Marin gardeners have a better-than-average selection to choose from.

They range from such "exotics" as hibiscus and fuchsia to such general purpose shrubs as abelia and escallonia. And since the former are generally well known, it is the latter group that we propose to beat the drums for here.

ONE OFTEN overlooks the merits of his best friends when some illustrious newcomer overshadows them. Such it is with the general-purpose shrubs in our gardens. So much is written about the more exotic newcomers that we forget just how fine some of our old garden friends are.

Abelia is a case in point.

Without the familiar Glossy Abelia, which displays its myriad small white blooms each summer, our gardens would be less colorful than they are. Yet, because there is nothing flashy about this terrific shrub, gardeners often overlook it when it comes to planting something new.

ABELIA IS practically indestructible. Neither drought nor lack of care seems to change the crisp freshness of its green-tinged-bronze foliage, nor its small tubular flowers. The variety Edward Goucher produces pink flowers, but otherwise has the same clean appearance throughout the year.

You can get good mileage with abelias in the foundation or in the shrub border.

A Place In The Shade

Plants of a shade-loving nature are relatively plentiful in our nurseries, but there's a world of difference in the degree of shade they will tolerate.

Some "shade" plants will sulk when given too much shade, while others adapt to whatever amount you give them. The problem, obviously, is to find the right plant for the shady place you want to plant it.

All plants like some light—this every gardener knows. But there are a few which will thrive even when the shade is dense and uncompromising.

FATSHEDERA, for instance, that hybrid offspring of two unlikely parents—ivy and Japanese aralia—is one you can count on for the darkest corners of your landscape. It will grow in the dense shade of a corridor or under the dark overhang of a front porch eave.

There are other plants which grow under such conditions, but many will sulk and grow rangy; their foliage is lustreless and they obviously need more light.

Fuchsias are shade lovers, but many gardeners make the mistake of giving them too much shade. The result, as indicated above, is a lacklustre quality, a shortage of bloom and generally sub-par performance. Fuchsias live in shade and like it, but make sure that they get enough light to keep their foliage full and fresh. With this requirement met, they will give you profuse bloom from late spring until late fall.

NURSERYMEN have many varieties of fuchsias in bloom right now, so if you're looking for color to fill that not-too-shaded corner, drop by and have your pick.

Among the plant families that thrive in shaded spots are ferns. It would take more space than we have to describe all the different ferns available in Marin, but a visit to your local nursery will uncover more than you can probably use in your garden. These are the essence of beauty in summer gardens—cool and refreshing even on the hottest days.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Water dahlias thoroughly at about five-day intervals. Feed now with complete fertilizer, keeping it away from the main stalks.
- Shade trees may be planted now from containers. Summer planting gives you the advantage of a full year's growth over planting next year.
- Chrysanthemums have few pests, but aphis show up on occasion. They should be controlled before they get a foothold.
- Various selective controls are available for crab grass. You can apply them this month.
- Pinch crysanthemum plants back for the last time. After this, let them grow on undisturbed except for removing excess side buds.

How to cure a sick lawn
—without painful surgery!

PLAGUED BY BALDING SPOTS OF TURF?...SPREADING PATCHES OF DYING GRASS?...MOTH-EATEN SECTIONS OF LAWN? DESPAIR NO LONGER!—ORTHO HAS DEVISED TWO MIRACLE SPRAYS THAT GIVE FAST AND LASTING RELIEF FROM THE MISERIES OF LAWN CARE.

Now, without tedious waiting, without cumbersome spreaders, you can halt the spread of dying grass that used to mean the beginning of the end. ORTHO has just what the doctor ordered... and all you do is spray! But before you proceed with the operation, you must diagnose the case.

DO-IT-YOURSELF DIAGNOSIS

You can do it yourself right from your own lawn chair. First look for insect signs. Cream-colored moths hovering at dusk; orange butterflies flying by day. Or check the grass itself. You may find pencil-sized holes leading down to grass roots or white grubs chewing at the base of the blades. If you find none of these, then the plague is probably lawn disease—any one of five or six that can strike Western lawns in the summer and early fall.

RX: DIBROM

Now for the cures. First a spray that goes down deep...gives fast, fast, fast relief from lawn insects: DIBROM Lawn Spray. Minutes after you spray your lawn, you'll see insects boil up out of the grass and die . . . before your very eyes. Because DIBROM not only kills lawn insects on contact; its vapor is very irritating to them. Hurrying to escape the irritation, they shoot to the surface, right smack into the DIBROM that does 'em in. Then they dry up and blow away, taking with them the threat of a lush turf turned to tatters. And "they" is the who's who of lawn insects: lawn moth, cutworms, armyworms, wireworms, leafhoppers and thrips.

RX: LAWN FUNGICIDE

For lawn diseases, ORTHO has devised a dandy that takes care of most major diseases that plague Western lawns. Brown patch, melting out, grease spot, dollar spot, fading out and fusarium patch. It's name: ORTHO Lawn Fungicide, with not one but three fungicides in it, It even contains iron so it corrects chlorosis (yellowing of the grass.)

NOW FOR THE OPERATION

It couldn't be simpler. No scalpel. No forceps. No cumbersome spreaders. All you do is spray. You spray DIBROM with the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer; ORTHO Lawn Fungicide with the Spray-Ette. The sprayers do all the diluting automatically so you always apply the right amount. The cost of the operation is reasonable, too. You can treat over 1000 square feet of lawn with ORTHO Lawn Fungicide for less than 75¢ and with DIBROM for less than $1.25.

PROGNOSIS:

A healthy, lush green lawn all summer long, undamaged by insects or disease. The kind of lawn you worked and watered and fertilized to get. Just proves what we always say. If you've got any problem with your lawn or garden, see the doctor. He's the fellow with the rows of red-and-yellow bottles, boxes and cans: your authorized ORTHO dealer.

Weekly TV Log

A STRIKINGLY DIFFERENT KIND of television drama was "The Outpost," seen this past season as a "Du Pont Show of the Week" with, above left to right, Claude Rains, Richard Conte and Keir Dullea among its stars. The stark and rather terrifying suspense play will be repeated Sunday at 10 p.m. over KRON-TV as part of a series of encore shows being seen this summer on NBC-TV under the Du Pont banner. Roger Hirson wrote the original play, and Neville Brand and Everett Sloane complete an exceptionally able cast.

MUSICAL genius Ludwig van Beethoven, who faced many personal tragedies including loss of hearing in his struggle for recognition, is portrayed by actor Karl Boehm in "The Magnificent Rebel," a two-part drama to be repeated on "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color." The first segment will be seen this Sunday at 7:30 p. m. over KRON-TV.

IT'S A TYPICAL ROLE for suave and charming Cary Grant as "Mr. Hollywood" plays a notorious and carefree bachelor-playboy finally faced with a problem in "An Affair to Remember." Cary's problem: Should he marry for wealth or love? He is seen here getting advice from Cathleen Nesbitt, who portrays his dowager aunt wise in the ways of love. One of the better films seen in the NBC-TV "Monday Night at the Movies" series this past season, the comedy romance will be given an encore showing on KRON-TV next Monday at 7:30 p.m. Deborah Kerr co-stars.

HOST JACK PAAR roared with delight at one of the outspoken comments of veteran actress Bette Davis, who was his guest on his NBC-TV show last November. Davis fans who missed the show the first time around will have another opportunity to see it when it is repeated as "The Jack Paar Program" for next Friday night, 10 o'clock on KRON-TV. In addition to Paar's chat with Miss Davis about her film, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?", and other subjects, the program features appearances by comic Jonathan Winters, singer Gisele MacKenzie and Fred "The Great Imposter" Demara.
